Italy Rejects League Proposals

Agreement Not Likely, Is View Now At Geneva

Committee of Conciliation Has No Common Ground With Italy For Discussion; Italian Legation in Addis Ababa Forbidden to Have Guard of Troops

Italy Has One Day Of Mobilization

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Geneva, Sept. 10.—Hopes of an agreed settlement with Italy over Ethiopia were rapidly disappearing here to-night.

Salvador de Madariaga, the Spanish chairman of the five-power committee appointed to conciliate the dispute between the two nations, reported to the committee of five to-night the result of his interview with Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy was "very far from satisfactory."

Baron Aloisi definitely declined to accept proposals based on the Anglo-French offers put forward at the abortive tripower conversations in Paris, and rejected at the time by Premier Mussolini.

Sir Samuel Hoare, British Foreign Secretary, who is attending the League Assembly, Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, British delegate to the League Council and member of the committee, and Premier Laval of France will confer later to-night on the position. The trio are working in close collaboration in efforts to solve the crisis.

To-morrow Sir Samuel will open a general debate in the Assembly with a statement on Britain's position.

German-Italy Move Watched

New Friendship Is Watched By British; Newspapers Comment

Associated Press

Rome, Sept. 10.—Adolf Hitler's assurance of collaboration with Italy on a basis of "reciprocal comprehension of the vital necessities of the two peoples" was accepted in informed circles to-day to mean support of Italy's expansionist plan in return for Italian sympathy with Germany's colonial ambitions.

It was made clear that Italy would welcome Germany's sympathy for its East African venture—sympathy denied it by Great Britain—with the publication here of the interchange of speeches between Italy's ambassador to Germany, Bernardo di Attolico, and Hitler in the German capital last Sunday.

Official circles quickly saw the portent as Hitler and Attolico both acknowledged the international complications of the Italo-Ethiopian situation at the present moment.

They agreed the sounding of this note in the ceremony attending the presentation of Attolico's credentials went beyond the usual exchange of amenities.

Although no official statement was available to-day, it was recalled that Italy had for a long time been a champion of treaty readjustment to allow Germany a place in the sun.

RETIRE AT 60 BENNETT PLAN

Prime Minister Promises Legislation to Remove All Over Three-score Years From Labor Market in Canada; Big Debt Conversion Is Another Proposal

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Revision of all classes of debt, public and private, re-employment measures decided on after five years' experience "of the right and wrong way in which to deal with problems of the depression," and statutory retirement from the labor market of those workers who have reached the age of sixty years, are proposed in the programme of the Conservative party.

In his second election campaign address to the people of Canada delivered yesterday evening Prime Minister Bennett announced his government proposed the following:

Requesting Canadian investors to convert their Dominion, railway, provincial and municipal securities at a lower interest rate.

London, Sept. 10.—"We should get out of Geneva, re-arm in earnest and busy ourselves only with our own interests," said The London Daily Mail to-day apropos of the Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

"Such a common sense move would be popular in the Dominions. Prime Minister Bennett has said in plain terms Canada would refuse to be embroiled in any dispute where Canadian interests were not involved."

A Vancouver delegation, seeking government assurance that a by-law covering the issue of $1,500,000 of baby bonds for public works, would be validated, received a sympathetic hearing from the provincial cabinet this morning.

Alderman W. W. Smith of Vancouver, head of the delegation, said the government had promised its answer toward the end of the week. He felt confident the work, which includes the new Vancouver city hall, will proceed.

BOY LOST IN WOODS DIES

Canadian Press

St. Boniface, Man., Sept. 10.—Manitoba grieved to-day with the parents, brothers and sisters of five-year-old Jack Pike, who succumbed in a hospital here yesterday evening to the rigors of ninety-six hours without food or water when lost in the bush eleven miles south of here.

Despite a blood transfusion and close medical care, the fair-haired lad died nine hours after he had been found muddled in a clump of bushes, exhausted and frightened.

STRAYED FROM HIS PARENTS

Suffering from exposure, shock, stravation and dehydration, the little fellow had not sufficient strength left to recover from his wanderings in the bush since last Thursday, when he strayed from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pike, while picking blueberries.

More than 2,000 persons had participated in the search, the largest ever conducted in Manitoba.

Alberta Asks Big Dominion Loan

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Hon. William Aberhart, Social Credit Premier of Alberta, opened negotiations to-day with the federal government for a loan of $18,389,000. He met Premier Bennett and a committee of the cabinet to-day.

The Alberta Social Credit Party swept the provincial election two weeks ago but inherited a treasury almost bare of money. It is their hope to secure money from the Dominion treasury so they can start the fiscal year 1936 without financial worries. That would permit them to give first consideration to their programme of basic dividends and fixed prices.

Premier Aberhart, who was accompanied to Ottawa by Attorney-General John Hugill, estimated Alberta would show a deficit of $1,850,000 at the end of the present fiscal year, March 31, 1936. He also estimated $2,139,000 would be necessary to pay Alberta's relief costs.

After the interview this morning Premier Aberhart said it was satisfactory. He was to see Premier Bennett again this afternoon.

Government Announces More Than Fifty Put Under Arrest

Canadian Press from Havas

Lisbon, Sept. 10.—Portugal's government frustrated an attempted revolution during the night and was in complete control of the situation here to-day with fifty conspirators in prison.

Warned by its secret agents that Syndicalist followers of Rolao Preto had formed an unexpected alliance with Communist elements and planned a sudden coup to overthrow the government, the authorities moved swiftly.

Besides fifty naval yard workers, they seized Capt. Mendes Norton of the navy, who had planned to take the dispatch boat Bartolomeo Dias. He was arrested with all his crew and put in irons in Fort Ameilo Erira.

This afternoon the city was as quiet as ever, except that at strategic points armed detachments were posted.

The Ministry of the Interior refused to make any statement on the uprising.

All Must Answer Relief Questions

Province Prepares For Complete Check-up on Working Ability and Training of Unemployed; Basis For Works Programme

Each relief applicant in British Columbia, when he applies for his allowance next month, will have to answer approximately forty questions about himself describing what work he is trained for, what he has done and would be able to do, and whether he is physically fit to handle a job.

These questionnaires which are the basis for the government's new relief census, were being run off the press at the Parliament Buildings today ready for circulation to municipal and provincial relief offices all over British Columbia.

Provincial officials will assist municipal authorities in making the survey where necessary, it was announced.

The entire relief roll of approximately 83,000 will be covered during the month of October. This will give the government a complete check on the capabilities of every unemployed person in the province who is receiving assistance.

As others go back on the roll during the winter months they will be required to answer the same questions.

Half-dozen Leaders, But None Moving

Associated Press

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 10.—U.S. Senator Huey P. Long, builder of a political empire unique in United States history, died at 4.06 a.m., C.S.T., to-day.

An assassin's bullet, fired Sunday evening, ended his "dictatorship" in Louisiana.

The political control of the state hung in the balance. The senator's foes sought unity in their fight to sweep out the organization he created.

The senator's lieutenants, leaderless for the first time, sought to keep peace among themselves and preserve the power they had inherited. Governor Oscar K. Allan, titular head of Long's organization, said: "We are going to follow the principles of Huey P. Long."

BODY TO BE IN STATE

A funeral service for the late Senator Long—whose influence spread far beyond the borders of his native state, and who was frequently discussed as a presidential possibility—was being planned.

The body, however, will lie in the new $5,000,000 skyscraper State Capitol—a symbol of his political greatness.

The senator, in a coma, died quietly. He was forty-two years old. For thirty-one hours, he and his physicians had fought to stave off death from the bullet wound inflicted by Dr. C. A. Weiss Jr., thirty-year-old Baton Rouge eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, subsequently killed by Long's bodyguards.

MANY MESSAGES

The death of the "Kingfish" had an interest far wider than the State of Louisiana, and messages came from many parts of the United States. To what extent Senator Long's acts would have on the presidential election in 1936 had been a matter of speculation for some time.

CAPITAL STILLED

Louisiana's capital was stilled today following word of Senator Long's passing.

Although news of the death traveled like wildfire, its reality seeped but slowly into the minds of the 40,000 inhabitants.

"Huey's dead" rolled off the tongue of everyone, but all were met with the task of adjusting their minds to that fact.

Huey Long was the chief topic of discussion in every Baton Rouge household. He had been for years.

State employees, Long-loyal to a man, gathered in small groups and discussed their chief's death in subdued voices.

A sketch of the late Senator Long's career appears on page ten.

German Schools Will Bar Jews

Public Institutions Being Closed to Non-Aryans; Special Ones For Jews

Associated Press

Berlin, Sept. 10.—Bernard Rust, Prussian commissioner for culture and education, decreed to-day that Jewish school children from six to fourteen years must get out of all German schools by Easter, 1936.

Special public schools, restricted to Jews, will be opened, however.

Rust stated the decree was "carrying out an old National Socialistic (Nazi) demand."

The demand said all lower schools would be free of non-Aryans after Easter, at which time public schools will be started for the Jewish children to supplement the private schools already existing.

A similar separation of Aryans and non-Aryans has been effective in the higher schools with children up to the age of nineteen since 1933, but the new decree anticipates tightening of the old law.

The child was rushed to a hospital, but was found to be only chilled and was taken home apparently little the worse for her experience. A drizzling rain had fallen most of the night.

In the evening the first performance of the three-day horse show will start at 8.15 o'clock. The equestrian events have always proved a drawing card of outstanding merit.

As usual the racing meet has attracted good crowds and will continue to sustain interest throughout the week.

MIDWAY POPULAR

Midway features are enjoying their usual popularity and the throngs which are wandering through the different buildings are, on the whole, larger than those of previous years.

Yesterday paid admissions at the gate numbered 2,672, an increase of 720 over the same day last year.

Gate officials computed the number of paid admissions as about one fifth of the total attendance, the remainder being made up by pass holders, exhibitors and children who are admitted free. On that basis the attendance yesterday would be approximately 13,360.

Paid admissions for the two days stand at 5,537.

Italy Rejects League Proposals

NO COMMON GROUND

Net result of to-day's negotiations is that the committee of conciliation and Italy remain without any common ground whatever. It is considered doubtful now whether it will be worth the committee's while to continue talks with Italy.

Unless something unexpected happens the committee will probably have to go ahead and draw up a statement of its own view of what it considers as desirable terms of peace between Italy and Ethiopia. These terms, it is pointed out, must be based on the Paris peace proposals.

ECONOMIC AID

They will be confined to collective economic assistance to Ethiopia. They do not involve political or military control of Ethiopia either by Italy or an international force. It is there the difference with Italy arises. Italy wants not only economic concessions; she wants political control.

The object of Senor Madariaga's talk with Baron Aloisi was to endeavor to bring the Italians to a positive ground. In that the talk failed. No progress could therefore be made in negotiations with Ethiopia as the Ethiopians wanted to know the result of the talks with Italy before agreeing to any new proposals.

LEGATION REFUSE GUARD

Associated Press

Addis Ababa, Sept. 10. — Emperor Haile Selassie to-day refused the Italian legation permission to bring colonial Italian troops into Ethiopia.

The Italian legation had asked permission to bring in a detachment of colonial soldiers as a special legation guard, just as the British has brought in colonial troops from India assigned to duty in the legation compound. The British troops have erected bomb-proof shelters.

While the League of Nations is struggling at Geneva for peace, predictions were being made here to-day, even in official quarters, that Italy would begin war within two weeks, when the present rainy season ends.

One minister, who would not permit himself to be quoted, said he expected war in fifteen days.

FOREIGNERS ORDERED TO CAPITAL

Provincial governors to-day ordered all foreigners in the interior to come to the capital province for safety.

ITALIAN MOBILIZATION

Associated Press

Rome, Sept. 10—Premier Mussolini to-day ordered a nation-wide one-day mobilization of all the Fascist forces of Italy. The mobilization will test the nation's ability to spring to arms at a moment's notice.

The order involves 2,000,000 members of the Fascist Party, and 650,000 young Fascists between eighteen and twenty-one— a totale of 2,650,000. They will be accompanied by 4,000,000 Fascist boys.

The order did not set the date of the mobilization, but announced it would be proclaimed by sirens and church bells.

At the moment the signal is given all Fascist forces of the kingdom will be required to gather in certain barracks and squares in cities, towns and hamlets. The black shirt militia will gather in Fascist barracks. Fascists living abroad are required to telegraph the secretary of the party.

Simultaneously similar mobilizations will be held in Italy's colonies.

Hard-surfacing in Various Parts of B.C. Pleases Delegates at Harrison Hot Springs Convention

Canadian Press

Harrison Hot Springs, B.C., Sept. 10.—Cheered by the government statement that 200 miles of British Columbia highways will have been hard-surfaced by the end of 1935, delegates to the Good Roads League of B.C. opened a one-day convention here to-day. J. J. Johnston, concluding his eleventh term as president, welcomed approximately 100 municipal representatives.

The convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities will open to-morrow.

Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, received congratulations from the Good Roads League for his highway policy. A report issued by the Department of Public Works that the road-building programme begun this year will be continued at the same rate was received with gratification.

Mr. MacPherson was scheduled to speak this afternoon.

In his presidential address, Mr. Johnston reviewed the progress made during the last year and suggested possible highway improvements.

"The government intends next year to vote a further sum for hard surfacing and if we have patience, in a few years we will be enjoying a better condition of roads than for years," Mr. Johnston said.

RETIRE AT SIXTY BENNETT PLAN

DETAILS AWAITED

No details were given with respect to the scheme for retiring workers at sixty years. It was described as "the first step to be taken by way of permanent solution of this problem," proposing to remove from the labor market "all those workers who have reached the age where especially under conditions of to-day the worker's social interest, the state's economic intrest, equally suggest the wisdom of retirement."

MORE TRADE WITH U.S. NEEDED

Mr. Bennett was emphatic in his declaration there was no alternative to debt revision, but he declared the government was committed to a policy of meeting every financial obligation abroad so long as it was economically possible. Greater external trade would be necessary, particularly with the United States which was one of the Dominion's largest creditors, he said.

"What the people of Canada must determine now is whether they will wait until our debt has broken us, or whether they will act without further delay so the benefit of an honorable reconstruction of our obligations will serve in equal measure debtor and creditor alike," Mr. Bennett said.

EMPLOYMENT PROMISE

His 1930 campaign promise to "end unemployment" made at Moncton, N.B., was referred to by the Prime Minister. He repeated the promise yesterday evening "as sincerely now as I did then." There were about 500,000 unemployed, he said, as compared with 783,000 in the low point of the depression in 1933. Some 800,000 had been added to the workers of all classes in the last five years, Mr. Bennett estimated.

DEBT AS "ROOT EVIL"

After promising he would later discuss agriculture and kindred problems, the Prime Minister, opening his address, which was broadcast from coast to coast on a radio hook-up, plunged at once into his theme.

Debt was the "root evil in our economic sysem," he said, and "a threat against the high standard of living we strike so hard to maintain."

Declaring revision was necessary, Mr. Bennett said it would be "unprofitable and foolish" to assume such economic recovery would come as to advance the Dominion to the point of wealth where taxation to meet the country's debt would not bear too heavily on the people. Also, assuming such "lightning speed in world recovery," the Dominion, overburdened by debt, would not hold its place among the leaders.

FARM DEBT ACT

Mr. Bennett referred to the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act of 1934, now in operation throughout the Dominion. The act had not done all that should be done to relieve the farmers, but it had made "a wonderful beginning." It remained for the government to take such other steps as would reduce the debt not only of farmers, but of city dwellers as well.

"You understand, of course, that the ordinary commercial business, when in distress, can take advantage of bankruptcy proceedings, but the ordinary householder, when in distress, has no alternative if he cannot pay but to forfeit his home if the mortgagee so decrees," he said. "This is unsatisfactory to the mortgagee. And I believe that class, if it takes a sane view of the situation, will welcome the introduction of legal machinery by which the mortgagor will be enabled to scale down his obligation to those proportions where the mortgagee's interest is assured for the reason that the home owner can pay it and still remain solvent."

Larger phases of the debt problem were then taken up, the national debt, including the Canadian National Railway debt, provincial and municipal debts and debt to the people of Canada and to foreign countries.

"Now I tell you plainly that this great national debt of ours must be reduced," said Mr. Bennett. "Although we are making programmes to recovery . . ., I will not pretent that I can see any real promise of permanent security until we have lightened this awful burden of the national debts."

BIG CONVERSION PROPOSED

"What do we propose to do in these circumstances? We propose, my fellow Canadians, to ask the people of this country who are the creditors of the Dominion Government, the Canadian National Railways and of the provinces and of the municipalities, to agree to a scheme of conversion upon a substantially lower rate of interest than that now provided for.

"In future there will be no more tax-free bonds offered by the Dominion of Canada.

PROVINCES AND CITIES

"We will co-operate with the provinces and the municipalities in refunding operations and upon terms and conditions just to the people of this country.

"In order to reconstitute our national debt, our railway, our provincial and municipal debt, we propose to set up a loan council. The functions of this body need not be elaborated here.

"What we propose to do is in principle what the government of the United Kingdom did so successfully.

DIRECT TAXATION

"I do not say that our revenues cannot be increased by direct taxation," he said. "They can be and they will be. But I do say our revenues, so increased, will not be adequate to forever take care of our mounting debts unless our general trade increases likewise."

HOPES FOR TRADE PACT

He said it was clear "that we must do all we can to increase our business with the United States.

"I believe we will succeed in achieving this highly desirable adjustment in our international trade. The two governments are at present seriously engaged in negotiations designed to increase the trade between their countries."

REPEATS PROMISE

Solution of the unemployment problem would be the greatest possible step in the direction of improving the standard of living, said Mr. Bennett. Political opponents had said much about his pledge to end unemployment and he had no objection.

"I did say that I would end unemployment. I would not have you in any doubt about that point. I made that statement at the city of Moncton during the campaign of 1930. I repeat that statement here to-night. I make it as sincerely now as I did then.

"After five years of experience of the right and wrong way in which to deal with the problems of the depression, I have finally, in a sense reluctantly, but quite irrevocably, determined on what we conceive to be the only practical solution of the problem in its present form. . . .

"In 1930 Mr. King promised you a commission to deal with the unemployment situation. In 1935 he promises you a commission once again.

"In my opinion and in the opinion of my colleagues, the first step to be taken by way of a permanent solution of this problem is to remove from the labor market all those workers who have reached the age where, especially under conditions of to-day, the worker's social interest, the state's economic interest, equally suggest the wisdom of retirement.

"It is, of course, clear to all of us that the old rules governing hours of labor and years of labor can no longer apply, because we live in changed economic conditions. That fundamental truth forces fundamental changes in our whole economic system. These changes embrace changes in conditions of work, hours of work. They also embrace changes in the age of retirement from work.

AT AGE OF SIXTY

"This new economic trend has already influenced the retirement schemes of certain private enterprises. And these enterprises, after careful estimate of all the factors involved, have met the new conditions by determining upon a retirement age of sixty years.

"The government recognizes this principle. And, in conformity with it, will introduce into Parliament legislation to make it effective.

The scheme was the only means by which youth could secure employment and all the people security and leisure.

"It is a bold, and, I believe, will prove to be a triumphant attempt to put an end to this curse of unemployment, to free the labor market from the dead weight of the unemployed, to put purchasing power in the hands of a greater number, to effect, in a sound and equitable way, a measure of the redistribution of the wealth of the land.

WITHDRAW 120,000 PEOPLE

"The application of this principle will mean, in the first years of its operation, the withdrawal from the labor market of 120,000 people, and provide that number of jobs for younger workers."

Even this, Mr. Bennett explained, would not take care of every one of the unemployed, but it would take away a great many and pave the way for other measures to bring the number down to an irreducible minimum.

Ancillary schemes which might be used were: Housing, on which a start had already been made; forest conservation, farm settlement and development of mining areas. Co-operation of the provinces would be necessary in these projects.

Seasonal unemployment could not be eliminated under any single scheme, but a central authority to regulate various schemes of public works would moderate its present extremes," said Mr. Bennett. Roughly 10 per cent of the Canadian workers had always been unemployed and the unemployment insurance system was designed to care for them.

Another phase of the unemployment crisis was the inability of unemployed parents to train their children properly, said Mr. Bennett. The government had decided to "ask Parliament for a sum of money adequate to ensure the training of our boys and girls denied proper education because of conditions for which neither they nor their parents are in any way responsible."

ASSASSIN'S BODY BURIED

Associated Press

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 10. — A flower-banked grave to-day marked the resting place of Dr. Carl A. Weiss Jr., mild-mannered physician who turned assassin and mortally wounded U.S. Senator Huey P. Long.

The body of the thirty-year-old eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, in turn shot down by Long's bodyguards, was buried yesterday following a service attended by thousands of persons representing all strata of society.

The physician's parents, his wife of two years and his associates could give no reason beyond a supposedly passive political opposition to Long, for shooting the Senator.

The bullet-torn body was lowered into the grave while the throng at the service stood in a heavy rain.

Wreaths from the Kiwanis Club and the Young Businessmen's Club decked the casket and a large delegation of each organization attended the funeral. Others present were former Governor John M. Parker, Congressman J. Y. Saunders, Dean R. L. Tullis and District Attorney John Fred Odom.

All Must Answer Relief Questions

The total of 85,000 covers all cases, including women and children. There are about 16,500 married men and 17,800 single men who are the ones that will have to fill out the questionnaires.

BASIS OF WORKS PLAN

By keeping the census up to date, month by month, the province will be in a position to draft a works programme directly suited to the needs of the unemployed, it was explained. This will be submitted to Ottawa during the coming winter.

It is the second time within the last fourteen months the government has moved to segregate relief cases into different classes of labor. On this occasion it will be more detailed than that of last year when, for the first time, a comprehensive picture of the situation was obtained. It showed, for instance, that by far the largest single group of unemployed were in the building trades, so that a housing programme of public building construction appeared as a logical way to meet the demand.

Another large group was composed of farmers who could be assisted by a few months of road construction work each year.

PHYSICAL ABILITY

The new element, regarded by the government as of the greatest importance, is the ability of those on relief to perform work when it is provided for them. Many of those now on the lists would be unable to perform full-time jobs, it is believed and the latest census will show just where they could fit into a building or works programme, and will segregate those who must be regarded as charity cases.

Greeks Urged To Vote For King

Associated Press

Athens, Sept. 10.—Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris, head of the Greek republican government, issued a proclamation to-day urging the people to vote for the restoration of the monarchy.

The proclamation came after a night which saw tension between monarchists and republicans break into an open fight outside the doors of the cabinet chamber, with the bayoneting of two republican leaders by monarchist guards.

After deploring the night's events, Premier Tsaldaris's proclamation asked for calm and order, concluding:

"I consider democratic royalty as the natural regime for Greece and ask the people to vote for it in the impending plebiscite."

EVIDENCE ON WALLET GAME

Associated Press

New York, Sept. 10.—Thrice-told tales of fortunes lost in confidence games were related at the mail fraud trial of William J. Graham and James C. McKay, politically powerful gamblers of Reno, Nevada.

The two men are accused by the government of having been in league with an international swindle ring, of having facilitated swindle victim transactions at the Riverside Bank of Reno.

Frederick Bray of Guernsey, Sask., was a first witness to-day. His story of having been fleeced of $21,000 through the old lost pocketbook ruse was closely patterned after the testimony of four witnesses yesterday.

So familiar was the theme that Federal Judge Robert McMillan of Texas said:

"This seems to be an old story. These details take time. Let's hit the high spots."

At yesterday's hearing a quartette of witnesses—a British Columbia rancher, a coal dealer, an engineer and a retired contractor—testified they had been swindled out of more than $250,000.

The Canadian rancher, Alister Forbes of Victoria, testified he had lost $30,000 through the activities of H. H. Stoneman and Joe Lamonte, alleged "steerers" of the swindle ring.

German-Italy Move Watched

in a race against time to find a solution for the Italo-Ethiopian dispute, Rome's new friendship with Berlin stirred concern in British circles. Commenting on the Sunday visit of the Italian ambassador, Bernardo di Attolico, with Adolf Hitler, The London Times said:

"The words uttered by the Italian government through the mouth of its ambassador have an intention which can hardly be mistaken. If the 'justice' of the Italian claims is not recognized in some quarters, it will seek recognition elsewhere."

The London Daily Mail foresaw closer relations between the two countries arising from their common desire for colonies.

ONLY ONE

Berlin, Sept. 10 (Canadian Press from Havas)—Only the Italian ambassador to Germany has accepted Chancellor Hitler's invitation to the diplomatic corps to attend the Third Nazi Congress at Nurnberg, it was authoritatively learned here to-night.

Representatives of other nations were reported as refusing the invitation because they regarded the congress as purely a Nazi political function, and not an official state gathering.

Huey Long's Death Stirs United States

IN WHIRLPOOL

With the powerful Long machine rudderless, Louisiana, politically, was in a whirlpol to-day.

When Huey Long passed from the political stage he left a half dozen political leaders of about the same stripe. None overshadowed the other. If one should try to step ahead of the other there would be danger of warfare.

Normally the high man would be Governor O. K. Allen, but during his entire political career he has leaned heavily on Huey Long, who was a friend from the barefoot boy stage in Winn parish. To-day Governor Allen was broken up over his friend's death.

CONFERENCES HELD

Before Long's death, but after it was known that he would die, his political lieutenants held conferences on what steps to take. In them were Governor Allen, Seymour Weiss, Long political treasurer; Abe Shushan, director of the New Orleans levee board; Lieutenant-Governor James A. Noe, Allen Vellender, Speaker of the House; George Wallace, Long's legislative adviser, and others.

On one of these six the chances are the togs of the "Kingfish" will fall, but that will be determined in faction caucus later.

ANTI-LONGS BUSY

The death of Long also aroused the anti-Long politicians. They are out to catch up any political material that may drift away from the Long faction camp.

Nothing in the direction of reorganization of the Long machine was expected until after the funeral. However, there was one thing certain—there will not be another "dictator" of Louisiana of the Long ilk.

FIVE TRANSFUSIONS

In their battle to save Senator Long's life the physicians performed one operation and five blood transfusions and administered artificial oxygen, to no avail.

The widow, who was married to him twenty-two years ago, after her alibi testimony had saved him from charges in a shooting scrape, was led dry-eyed from Our Lady of the Lake Hospital. She had been at the bedside in the constant vigil since Sunday night.

A "gunshot wound in the abdomen" was officially given as the cause of the senator's death by Dr. E. L. Sanderson, who said there were "not necessarily" any complications.

Dr. G. S. Long, a brother of the late senator, was quoted as saying, however, the bullet, which entered the right side, puncturing the colon in two places, also penetrated the kidney. The senator was forty-two years old.

The gunshot wound was inflicted by Dr. Carl A. Weiss Jr., kinsman of a Long political enemy, in the corridor of the Louisiana State Capitol at 9.20 o'clock Sunday evening.

INVESTIGATION

Even before Senator Long's death, there were demands for a full investigation of the fatal shooting. In Washington Representative Fenerty, Pennsylvania Republican declared:

"The congressional committee which is about to investigate Senator Long's activities in Louisiana might also investigate who it was who instigated his attempted murder."

The senator had just stepped from the House chamber Sunday evening after pushing toward completion a number of special session acts aimed at the federal administration, and toward consolidating his already almost unbelievable personal control of the state's affairs.

Dr. Weiss, a thirty-year-old eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, pressed a gun against the senator's stomach and fired. His arm was deflected before he could fire a second shot and Long's bodyguards, State Highway Policemen, killed him on the spot with a fusillade of nearly sixty bullets. The body of Dr. Weiss was buried yesterday.

LOST CONSCIOUSNESS

Senator Long became delirious at midnight, and shortly later lost consciousness. Earl J. Christenberry, his secretary, said he exclaimed:

"Where are my children?"

His children, Rose, Russell and Palmer Reid, were rushed to his side, but too late for the senator to recognize them.

A nurse in attendance revealed Senator Long had been conscious most of the night and had conversed frequently with his wife, who had remained constantly at his side.

Seymour Weiss, a close friend said Senator Long had been unconscious since early midnight. He said he could not remember the last thing the senator said while he was conscious.

Governor Allen said: "The last thing he said when he was still conscious was 'I wonder what will happen to my poor university boys.'"

Long had always been proud of Louisiana state university and had led the cadet band and cheered the football team from the sidelines.

HAD PREMONITION

Mrs. Long said her husband had a premonition he would be shot when he left New Orleans to attend the special session.

"I may not come back, but I'll die fighting," he told his wife.

At the bedside when Long died were Mrs. Long and their three children, Rose, Russell and Palmer Reid; Seymour Weiss, a close friend, Governor Allen, State Supreme Court Justice John Fournet, Lieutenant-Governor James A. Noe and other friends.

The "dictator" had been mentioned as a United States presidential candidate for 1936.

FATHER COUGHLIN'S REGRET

Albany, N.Y., Sept. 10 (Associated Press).—Father Charles E. Coughlin was quoted by The Albany Evening News to-day as saying U.S. Senator Huey P. Long's death was "the most regrettable thing in modern history."

"No matter how bitter our animosity may be, in a democracy such as ours we should never have recourse to bullets to settle political disputes," the Michigan priest was quoted as saying.

NEW YORK MONEY

New York, Sept. 10 (Canadian Press)—The pound sterling closed at $4.94½, a gain of ⅝ of a cent on the Foreign Exchange Market to-day.

The Canadian dollar eased ⅛ of a cent to a discount of ¼ per cent, and the French franc receded .00⅝ of a cent to $6.59½ cents.

Liberals Reject Defeatist Ideas

Canadian Press

Windsor, N.S., Sept. 10.—Canada needed Liberal policies and Liberal leadership to solve financial and economic problems now confronting her, Premier J. G. Gardiner of Saskatchewan told a gathering here yesterday evening as he opened a speaking tour of Nova Scotia.

"We in the west believe it is in the common interest of both east and west that government be set up in Canada on the basis of Liberal principles at this time," he declared.

"The Liberal party refuses to accept the defeatist policy which maintains we cannot get into the markets of the world and therefore must depend on taking in one another's washing.

"World trends to-day are the same as they were in 1896. World trends are the same as they were in 1921. They are toward a better distribution of world surpluses. Our surplus is one of food. We must trade that food to persons who will eat it while they make the things we wear and use while producing it.

"If we do, revenues will increase and our financial position will improve. If we do, railway traffic will improve."

Kidnapper May Be Forced to Pay

Associated Press

St. Paul, Sept. 10.—A default judgment for $219,010.95, covering the $200,000 ransom in the Edward G. Bremer abduction, was entered in district court here yesterday against Arthur "Doc" Barker, now serving a life term for the kidnapping.

The judgment was sought as a preliminary to attaching Barker's share of an estate of approximately $14,000 reported left by his mother, Kate Barker, and brother, Fred Baker, slain by federal agents in Florida.

Government Prepares to Take First Step Toward Monthly Dividends

Canadian Press

Edmonton, Sept. 10.—Preliminary steps in preparation for province-wide registration of Alberta citizens for the Social Credit basic dividends of $25 monthly will be started immediately through an elaborate network of workers in each of the fifty-three provincial constituencies, according to an announcement by Acting Premier Manning.

The work will be conducted by the campaign machinery set up by the Social Credit Party for the last general election. Men who served for the party at that time will prepare the way for registration by organizing each constituency for registration. The work will be voluntary and will cost the government nothing, Mr Manning said.

Wide Search For Missing Fliers

Alaska Planes in Pairs Will Search Salchaket River Area For Pilot A. Hines and Three Passengers

Associated Press

Fairbanks, Alaska, Sept. 10.—Alaska airmen under federal direction prepared to-day for an intensive aerial search of the historic "Salt Jacket" River country hunting clues to the fate of Pilot Arthur Hines and three passengers missing since August 19 on a flight here from Dawson, Y.T.

Yesterday two planes made a fruitless scouting expedition to the head of the Chena River. Pilots Jack Hermann and Frank Pollack and Observers Gordon Hunter, Robert Barnes and E. M. Pollack, reported no trace there of the missing plane party.

Yesterday evening, Murray Hall, federal aeronautics inspector, who had returned from Anchorage to resume directing the hunt, mapped out the "salt jacket" country, so named by goldrush sourdoughs whose sled runners carved out the first traces of the old sled trail which runs up the Salchaket River valley.

Like a general commanding an army, he assigned pilots to cover various sections of the valley and report back each night to the search base here.

TO COVER AREAS THOROUGHLY

"Each night we will mark the coverage off on the map, and continue until the area is covered thoroughly," Hall announced. "Then we will move on to the next as yet unsearched rivers and areas."

Hall found that popular subscriptions had raised a fund here sufficient to finance 250 hours of flying time in the search.

"When the fund is gone, the search will be over, unless more money is available," Hall said.

Meantime, he added, all searching planes must travel in pairs to prevent a recurrence of the near tragedy a week ago to-day when Pilot Percy Hubard, Hines's partner, and two observers were severely hurt when their unescorted plane crashed and burned in an isolated Chena River district.

CHRISTIANITY IN POLITICS

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept. 10.—A return to Christian principles is necessary before any real recovery can be attained, it is stated in a letter which the Anglican Church Men's Federation of the Diocese of New Westminster is sending to all federal election candidates within the diocese and also to every Anglican diocese in Canada.

The letter invites the various candidates to make a declaration in their public addresses in regard to the matters contained in the letter.

The letter expresses the federation's belief that the government of the Dominion must be carried on under the laws laid down by God, and carried out through the instrumentality of men who earnestly believe in, and have faith in, God's promises."

The federation consists entirely of laymen representing some forty-eight parishes in the Diocese of New Westminster, comprising the lower mainland of British Columbia. It was organized about a year ago with the sanction of Archbishop de Pencier.

FALL GRIEVES FOR DOHENY

Associated Press

Three Rivers, N.M., Sept. 10.—From his bed, Albert B. Fall, now seventy-one, spoke a word of sorrow yesterday for Edward L. Doheny—"my old friend Ed"—and then defied the late oil king's interests to succeed in a renewed effort to oust him from his vast cattle ranch.

Word both that Doheny had died and his subordinates had moved forward for eviction was brought Fall in the morning before he had been taken in his wheel-chair, as usual, to the wide-pillared porch where a little Rhode Island hen is his favorite companion.

"We are all shocked and grieved to learn of the death of my old friend," said Fall in a low voice, glancing about the family circle of his wife, two daughters and a granddaughter.

"I regret that Ed did not live to repair some of the wrongs being perpetrated at the present time. In good health and soundness of mind he (Doheny) would not permit some of the things that are going on."

Fall was told of a formal ejection suit petition, filed later in the day at Alamogordo, N.M., by counsel for the Doheny-controlled Petroleum Securities Company, and also of court procedure which may delay disposition of the case until next January.

"Let the law take its course," he said firmly. "I am certain they can never remove me."

JUDGMENT GIVEN AGAINST VERIGIN

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Sept. 10.—A judgment for $470 against Peter Verigin has been given by Judge Joseph Bernier in county court here in favor of Fritz Ammeter, former interpreter for the spiritual leader of western Canada's Doukhobors.

Verigin, who served a term in the Headingly jail near here for assaulting Ammeter on November 18, 1934, was not present at the hearing yesterday. He was undefended when the judgment was returned against him.

Ammeter was awarded $100 general damages, $130 which he claimed Verigin owed him in wages, $60 wages which he was unable to earn because of injuries and costs of medical treatment.

Alberta Needs Farm Workers

Shortage of Harvest Laborers Is Expected in Foothills Province

Calgary, Sept. 10.—A serious shortage of harvest help in Alberta may be encountered within the next week, according to officials of the provincial government employment service.

Relief camps for single jobless men are practically closed and it may be necessary to send the married unemployed men on civic relief in the cities of Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge and Drumheller to the harvest fields.

A month ago 1,500 men were at the camps, but to-day there are fewer than 300, the majority unfit for farm work.

Wages have jumped from $1.50 a day offered two weeks ago to $2.50 a day for stookers.

A shortage of farm help was reported in Saskatchewan, where stookers are being offered $3.50 a day.

Printers to Vote On Townsend Plan

Canadian Press

Montreal, Sept. 10.—The seventy-ninth annual convention of the International Typographical Union here was asked yesterday to declare itself as favoring the Townsend Plan of national revolving pensions, calling for the payment of $200 a month to those over sixty.

The motion was put forward by the San Diego Union No. 221 as business sessions of the convention got under way. It asked the convention to call on the Congress of the United States to pass a bill enacting the Townsend Plan into law so that public pensions might become a charge on the federal government and to bring about industrial recovery and end unemployment.

The motion was listed for discussion later.

MAN WITH SILVER STOMACH DIES

Associated Press

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 10.—Ferdinand Waggoner, who had spent the last forty-three years with silver tubes for a stomach, died yesterday at 103.

Waggoner received an accidental shotgun wound in the back which later necessitated replacement of his stomach with an artificial one.

He died at a home for the aged.

"Poor" Will Pay More Than Rich

Associated Press

Boise Idaho, Sept. 10.—Despite recent enactment of a law imposing a tax of $250,000,000 on the rich, "the poor people" of the United States will be required to pay $9,750,000,000 in taxes under provisions of appropriation measures adopted at the last congressional session, United States Senator William E. Borah of Idaho declared here yesterday evening in an attack on over-centralization of government.

The veteran Republican statesman made his observation in the course of an address before the Idaho State Medical Association's forty-third annual banquet, after he had called the attention of 200 Idaho physicians to the unsuccessful attempt made by Congress "to place medicine and the medical profession under federal bureaucratic control."

He referred to a provision which was eliminated from the Epstein social security bill.

He termed the attempt an illustration of "the abnormal trend of our times."

"I say times advisedly," he explained, "for the creeping paralysis of bureaucratic control is the product of no single administration but of many. The only difference between administrations in this respect is that of capacity."

THREE DEATHS INVESTIGATED

Two Men and Woman Lost Lives in Wenatchee River in Washington

Associated Press

Cashmere, Wash., Sept. 10.—Deputy sheriffs and the coroner's staff to-day continued their investigation of the triple drowning at a Wenatchee River tourist camp during a midnight drinking swim party.

The bodies, discovered yesterday, were those of two men and a woman, all scantily clad and identified as Everett Harkelrode, restaurateur; Earl Hill, cook, and Violet (Frankie) Netmann, all of Everett.

Charles Jorgenson, the camp proprietor, said they had rented a cabin from him. Examining the cabin after the tragedy, Jorgenson said he had found several beer and whisky bottles in the disordered rooms.

Several hardly legible notes also were found in the cabin. Apparently in a woman's handwriting, one note said: "We have been to dinner uptown and are going swimming. I hope the water is not cold." Another indicated they were going to Wenatchee to work in the orchards and then to the Grand Coulee dam site.

Deputy sheriffs said the bodies bore bruises and the imprints of hands, as though two of the party had tried to rescue the third and had drowned in the attempt.

Acquaintances in Everett said the two men had gone on a camping trip. The friends said they did not know the woman was with the men.

Need New Books On Sciences

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept. 10.—The need for authoritative but popularly written books on sciences and the humanities, designed for the large body of high school educated adults, was remarked yesterday by Dr. Carl H. Milam, executive secretary of the American Library Association.

He was guest at a luncheon given jointly by the board of governors of the University of British Columbia and the Vancouver Public Library Board.

"The difficulty is that most textbooks are written by college professors who do not dare popularize their subjects for fear other professors will laugh at them," Dr. Milam said.

He declared the solution might rest with teachers of junior college courses, who are in touch with the research in their fields and at the same time are engaged in explaining the subjects to "green freshmen."

Los Angeles, Sept. 10.—A funeral service for the late Edward L. Doheny will be held Wednesday in the $1,500,000 St. Vincent's Church, built through his generosity.

The seventy-nine-year-old oil capitalist died yesterday evening in his palatial Beverly Hills residence of a complication of ailments brought on by old age.

Found Gold, But Cannot Have It

Government Camp Cook Told He Is Not Allowed to Stake Rich Claim Because He Is Employee.

Regina, Sept. 10.—The story comes by moccasin telegraph that the cook for a federal government camp, while taking one of his lonesome walks, stumbled on a rich vein of gold in the new field up north. Samples proved the find beyond his wildest dreams, but his superiors told him he could not stake the claim as he was an employee of the government, although the strike was officially registered. He now meditates on what might have been, while cooking the bacon and beans, and sticks to his kitchen utensils.

Theft Warning Is Reiterated

Warnings regarding the locking of homes and the safeguarding of jewelry and other valuables, were reiterated by Chief of Police Heatley this morning following a series of break-ins lately in which thieves have sought only negotiable valuables.

If homes cannot be securely locked or valuables safely hidden, the Chief recommended that jewelry be either carried by the owner or deposited for safekeeping in secure hands.

Communications from the Esquimalt Ratepayers' Association protesting the holding of closed meetings, and supporting opposition to the granting of the Gorge beer parlor license, were received and filed by the municipal council yesterday evening. The association also sought a delay in the appointment of a municipal assessor in view of the government proposal to appoint an assessment board of three. In view of the fact the government has taken no action and the municipality has already appointed an assessor, the letter was received and filed.

THE KINGFISH PASSES

HUEY LONG, THE STRANGE AND UNexampled Kingfish of the Deep South, is dead, shot down by an assassin at the full tide of his career. With a strange mixture of emotions America will regard this man's passing.

He was one of the curious forces heaved up out of the blind desperation of these lean latter years. He was an undisguised demagogue, without scruple and without apology, but there was a calculating shrewdness about him, a capacity for sensing the trend of the times and the popular thing of the moment, which marked him as a man who might go far, if the tide continued to run in his way.

That he could have risen to the presidency on the current discontent is most unlikely. In fact, the latest news from the south was that he had no intention of running for President but, with characteristic cunning, had flown his presidential kites simply to build up his campaign for another senatorial term. The United States was never in danger of a Kingfish government.

His economics, like many wild prophecies of these times in other countries besides the United States, were of the crudest. But, with his gift for popular appeal, he had invented a slogan which went through the south and the west like a fiery cross—Share the Wealth—a plan to catch the ignorant and rouse the discontented. That he had no adequate idea of how the wealth was to be shared was obvious to all thinkers, but in a campaign like Long's, thought was the least consideration. Emotion, passion, discontent—these are the stuff out of which careers like Huey Long's are made.

And yet, when all this has been said, when all the cheap and tawdry things about him have been recalled, there was something significant and real in him, something that springs from the deep wells of American life. No other nation could have heaved him up. No other people but the desperate whites of his own south could have fashioned and brought forth such a man.

He was crude, he was cheap, he was vulgar and unscrupulous, but there was an elemental strength about him that came out of the underlying and unconquerable strength of a people who took an empty continent and made a great nation of it. He was the child and the creation of a part of America which had been submerged and almost forgotten in the nation's march. He spoke for it, whatever his motives, and his people heard him and the nation heard him. Whether you liked him or not, he was a fact and a reality of American life, not to be ignored.

The manner of his passing revealed those same currents of violence and desperation which had swept him along with them. He had built a veritable dictatorship of his own and fashioned it to suit his fancy, and yet he dared not move about, even in his own capitol, without a bodyguard. Even this protection was not enough to save him from the rage of the enemies whom he had made as he elbowed his way to the top. He was shot down in the place where he was unquestioned and supreme. His country, with the instincts of the lawless frontier still in its heart, will not endure dictators.

"MITCH" HEPBURN

A PARTICULARLY BRIGHT STAR OF the Canadian political firmament is Ontario's Premier, the Hon. Mitchell F. Hepburn, whom Victoria greets to-day. We have been reading and hearing much about him, especially since the middle of last year. He is undoubtedly our most interesting political figure. The strife of political affection and dislike beats fiercely around him. He seems destined to have a tremendous effect on the trend of Canadian affairs politically.

He is only thirty-nine years of age, but he has already done remarkable things. For one, he persuaded the federal constituency of West Elgin, which for forty years had voted for none but Conservatives, to forsake its traditions and elect him, a Liberal, to the House of Commons. That was in 1926 when he was only thirty years of age. Then, there was that other remarkable thing he accomplished last year when, as the provincial Liberal leader, he brought into the Liberal fold Ontario itself with its record of Conservatism dating back to 1905, unbroken except by less than four years of a post-war farmers' government. He made a thorough job of it, too—a landslide of sixty-six Liberals to seven Conservatives. He is credited in this with paving the way for the succession of Liberal victories across the country.

Remarkable as he may have been in such accomplishments, he is held by an increasing number of observers to be more than that. Indeed, The New York Times recently said he gave promise of proving himself actually unique among political personalities. And for the reason that "seldom has a Canadian Premier shown such persistent determination to carry out his campaign promises." Also, because "young, fearless, unparliamentary in speech and manner, completely devoid of the pompous dignity traditional with Canadian political life, he has injected elements into the conduct of Ontario's affairs which are unique in a Canadian province where government has been a routine and uninspired affair for many years." In office, "Mitch," as he is known to the people of his province, has became "a determined, unorthodox cabinet leader, contemptuous of red tape, indifferent to precedent, resolved to carry into effect not only specific Liberal policies but all the implications of Liberalism which won him his election."

What are we to expect of him as we in Victoria to-day meet him for the first time? We learn that instead of the rough-and-ready homespun character we may be led to expect from many of his press photographs, we find a sophisticated, gracious gentleman. "He speaks without circumlocution," The New York Times has said, "but in his directness there is both grace and wit. . . . Two of his outstanding qualities seem to be naturalness and consistency. His manner, his conversation, his gift for homely epigram, never vary a discernible iota."

CANADA'S LEAD AND ZINC

THE INFLUENCE THAT A SINGLE large mine can have on the fortunes of a nation is well illustrated in the case of the Sullivan mine in British Columbia. The amount disbursed from it in wages, supplies and railway freight charges last year was about $17,000,000. It produced well over 10 per cent of the world's supply of lead and zinc, besides substantial amounts of silver, and sulphuric acid made from the waste fumes was used to make an important tonnage of high-grade fertilizer. Most of these products were exported, which contributed to an important extent to the funds required to pay for the things we must import.

An analysis of Canada's trade in lead and zinc, the Sullivan mine's chief products, appears in the September bulletin of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, from the pen of T. W. Bingay, who recently retired from the vice-presidency of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company. Mr. Bingay outlines the conditions at present in the British market, which absorbs most of the Canadian output of these two metals as well as the supply from Australia. These two Dominions have now an assured market in Great Britain by reason of the Ottawa agreements; but they must sell at the world price, which assures to the British buyer the cheapest metal available. So here we have a good example of a preference without raising the prices.

Mr. Bingay's analysis of Canada's lead and zinc production and markets shows a satisfactory condition, in spite of very low prices for the metals. Should prices return to normal, therefore, the Canadian producers will be in a highly favorable position.

MINES SUPPORTING STEEL INDUSTRY

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE MINES AS a market for steel has been realized very clearly during recent years by the steel companies of this country. A number of the smaller steel companies, in fact, would have been put out of business by the depression, had not the mines provided a steady market for at least a part of their products; and all the steel companies, large and small, have shared in some degree in the prosperity of the mines.

From its inception as a surface prospect, a mine depends essentially upon the use of steel, and as soon as it goes into operation, steel in many forms is required. The pick of the prospector who found the mine is of steel, as are the drills he uses to blast the first pit in the outcrop. Then come rails, pipes, boilers, hoists, cables, crushers, tanks, and steel in scores, and eventually, hundreds, of other forms. In fact the consumption of steel is one of the major items of cost in developing and operating a mine.

These and related facts are brought out clearly by J. A. deBondy in the September bulletin of The Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy in a paper entitled "Steel Castings in Mining Operations." Mr. deBondy is the metallurgist of Manitoba Steel Foundries Ltd., at Selkirk, near Winnipeg, which specializes in castings for the railways and mines. Many of the castings for the mines are of a special nature, particularly the manganese steel castings used to withstand the severe wear of crushing and grinding the ore.

Mr. deBondy shows clearly how this special steel must be handled at the mine or quarry if its valuable qualities are to be retained. His paper also indicates how closely the engineers at the mines and the metallurgists of the steel plants are working together to improve the quality and increase the range of usefulness of the various steels.

A RUG IS MADE

Somewhere in Persia years ago
Or so the story runs,
A family I'll never know
With six or seven sons
And lovely daughters eight or nine;
A bread loaf and a jug,
Using the "tree of life" design
Began to weave a rug.

They wove by day and wove by night,
Their fingers seldom still
They wove with magic skill.
Through days of weal and days of woe
The pattern lovelier grew,
But where that rug at last would go
I'm sure they never knew.

I'm told the dear old mother died
Long ere the task was done.
Before the last small knot was tied
The father journeyed on.
But still the family wove with care
Nor bitter sighs and tears
Nor all the heartaches mortals bear
Could stay those toilsome years.

So sad the tale. I almost wept
To hear it told to me.
At Kermanshah that rug was kept
'Till nineteen thirty-three,
And then by camel and by cart
'Twas carried to the sea,
And yesterday a salesman smart
Unloaded it on me.

OBLIGING 'PHONE GIRLS

By O. O. McIntyre

From midnight to dawn telephone girls in the great New York hotels are pleasant buffers for loneliness. Strangers far from home turn to them for conversation in those often bleak hours of wakefulness while the rest of the city sleeps. One in the hotel zone on Central Park South, known as Mickey, has become widely known for her soothing voice. She has a list of "regulars" in the hotel and former patrons who call her in moments of dolor, "just to hear her voice."

HEPBURN

Ontario Premier's Technique Rare; Even Sir Thomas White Pats His on Back.

IT WAS to be expected that Premier Mitchell Hepburn would be the first to punch Hon. H. H. Stevens on the spot which, hit again, may provide the knockout anticipated by the cynics, writes D'Arcy Marsh in the Winnipeg Free Press. The Premier is not a respecter of personalities and he knows where to hit.

He made no specific charge, for he merely questioned the sincerity of the ex-Minister of Trade and Commerce. "Stevens, the Pretender," was the phrase he coined, and he enjoys the unique position in Canadian public life of having established, at least to the satisfaction of the public, that he is no pretender. The first year of the Hepburn Administration has done this for Mr. Hepburn, and a great deal more for the people of Ontario.

THE HEPBURN technique is rather rare. It resembles that of a certain Canadian war ace who frightened several elderly persons into premature greyness. The man is reckless but he is still alive, and the secret of his relative longevity is to be found in the nature of his recklessness. He used to loop at a low altitude and spin down from a great height; he barrel-rolled and did the "falling leaf." But always he had his weather eye cocked for an emergency landing field; he refused to take off in a "stall wind" and above all — he ran over his machine, invariably, before he took it up. Other men, who never stunted, are now beyond the vicissitudes of the air forever.

Hepburn seems to have looked at his machine. The campaign which was so signally rewarded on June 19 a year ago was a frankly mud-slinging partizan affair, but it got results. The answer is simple—the people of Ontario signified their approval of that sort of politics by destroying an entrenched Conservative stronghold. Then Mr. Hepburn proceeded to implement his pre-election promises. Ruthlessly enough, he fired some 1,500 civic employees. It was not an entirely pretty tale, and some good ones went out with the obviously unfit—but the Latin proverb holds: A bad apple corrupts the good apples. He could not afford to risk keeping any bad apples, and politics in Ontario in any case has been a dirty game. He instituted certain somewhat profitless and costly investigations into the remnants of the Tory machine, but they had been promised and they disposed of the anticipated pound of flesh. The other side of the picture is happier.

His government devised and brought into effect, the Industrial Standards Act, which makes legally binding agreements between employers and employees and is in line with established Liberal policy, consistently endorsed by the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, of limiting government interference as far as possible to the persuasive encouragement of co-operation within specific industries.

THE ACADEMIC radical condemns economy, ipso facto, because it is economy and implies that somebody, somewhere, is making, or saving, some money. It takes a brave man, in the face of this prejudice, to economize when his strength lies largely in the support of the poorer people. The Hepburn government has economized and, at the same time, enlarged the scope of government social services. What has happened, in effect, is a certain redefinition of the function of government, a reapplication of government moneys in order to serve better the needs of the people. The provisions of the Mothers' Allowance Act, for instance, have been enlarged to include mothers with only one child. Also, the school system has been thoroughly overhauled, and the modernization process already in progress may eventually bring results of incalculable significance; the dead hand of Toryism has been lifted, fairly gently, from one of the most vital fields of Canadian government enterprise. Grants to hospitals have been increased. Until recently, when it became apparent that during the harvest season relief would suppress the natural supply of labor, a generous and enlightened relief policy was pursued.

AN IMPORTANT innovation has been the application of revenues from license fees and the gasoline tax to highway maintenance and construction—an example of intelligent co-ordination. It necessitated a greatly reduced highway construction appropriation, but there are more important things, just now, than highways in Ontario.

Some money for enlarged social services has been secured by the more liberal distribution of beer and wine, with its consequent increase in government revenues. Such institutions as the Ontario Hydro, the Utilities Commission, the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, the Liquor Control Board, the Minimum Wage Board have been throughly reorganized and put upon an efficient basis. The onerous obligations, incurred by the predecessor provincial government, in regard to unwanted supplies of power from Quebec corporations, have been challenged and will be removed.

That has been the most spectacular, and the most typical, move of the administration. It looked as if the airplane was rocking pretty badly, as if the pilot had at last outstunted his ability—but, again, he knew his machine. Even strong supporters stood aghast at the possibility, luridly pictured, of Ontario's credit being ruined by the stigma of repudiation. The word was used loosely by the minions of St. James Street. It was repudiation, if the word must be used, not of bonds but of contracts that should not have been awarded—a redressing of the balance. And Mr. Hepburn knew that the last people in the world who wanted to see the credit of Ontario ruined were the people who held Ontario bonds, not a few of which rest in the coffers of notoriously impregnable institutions. Sir Thomas White descended from the high places, patted Mr. Hepburn on the head and—to mix the metaphor—the latter pulled his airplane out of its spin.

THAT BRINGS one back to Mr. Stevens. Ontario's Premier does not deal in the generalizations of the C.C.F.; he invokes neither the proletariat nor the often-quoted and little-read dissertations of Karl Marx. He merely refuses to comply with the wishes of those who would visit the sins of the fathers upon the children. He tells them that it shall not be done. As a result he is, irrevocably, entrenched in the public mind as a radical who goes beyond the limits of the current radicalism by getting something done without threatening to resort to the erudities of "Madame Guillontin."

And when, therefore, he questions the sincerity of the gentleman who left a sinking ship with an alacrity which pays tribute to his political shrewdness, there develops more than a suspicion that he may be right.

Apple Given To Cure Children's Diarrhea

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Medical authorities have been more or less divided over what is termed the apple diet in the cure of diarrhea in children. The condition that used to be called summer complaint or summer diarrhea is the kind particularly concerned.

This apple diet consists in scraping a peeled and cored raw apple to a fine pulp and feeding it, in doses of two to four teaspoonfuls every two hours while awake for from twenty-four to fortyeight hours.

If the child dislikes the apple, a small amount of sweeting may be added. Nothing else is given the child during this feeding, except water or weak tea to satisfy the thirst. Many physicians believe that weak tea has a highly astringent action on the bowel.

In many cases it has been found that there is a reduction in the number of actions of the bowel within eight to twelve hours and that rather soon the watery materials, and the mucus, give place to semi-formed excretions.

* * *

After forty-eight hours on the apple diet and when the condition has improved, the child, if over a year old, is given a diet containing a small amount of baked potato, vegetables and cocoa. Milk or cereal should not be given during the period.

In case the diarrhea recurs, the child is put on the apple diet again for another twenty-four-hour period.

A leading German physician suggested this diet about five years ago. Several explanations have been offered as to why the raw, scraped apple is useful, but all are theoretical. The effects seem to be obtained by a combination of factors.

* * *

Many physicians who specialize in disease of children, however, treat these diarrheas merely by omitting the regular food and using boiled water, weak tea, barley or rice water with saccharin instead of sugar for sweeting, for from twenty-four to forty-eight hours. After this, they begin feeding with buttermilk or powdered protein milk.

Both methods have many adherents.

This form of diarrhea usually occurs in late summer and is probably caused by bacterial organisms coming to the child from food, water or milk. Occasionally, however, the condition appears even in children who are taking evaporated milk.

The diarrhea comes on rather suddenly and excretions contain mucus and undigested food. Such children lose a great deal of water from the body, and as a result they appear dry and emaciated. Sometimes they have from six to twenty actions a day.

Extra Space Used For Flower Show

Gorgeous Blooms and Other Products of Agriculture Present Spectacle of Beauty in Main Building

Covering a floor space 500 square feet greater than that department required last year, the Main Building at the Willows this week presents one of the most colorful and attractive sights on view at the annual fair of the British Columbia Agricultural Association.

The lavish paint brush of nature has been used by a master craftsman to lend flowers and plants housed in the structure hues that beggar description, while the rich autumnal tints of ripened fruit, vegetables and grain add a warmth that might be lacking in the more gorgeous or delicately tinted blooms.

New varieties and perfect specimens provide an attraction which is drawing all flower lovers in and around the city to the show, while the general beauty of this section of the fair has proved a magnet to even the least informed on matters horticultural.

Two refreshment stands of the Royal Dairy, one on each side of the main entrance, offer tempting drinks and dishes to tired visitors.

To the north of the doors, Carey & McAllister have, in a compact display, types of transparent photography work, including portraits, scenes and figures.

GARDEN PRODUCE

Adjoining it are individual competitive stalls for twenty varieties of vegetables, all neatly arranged on backgrounds of greenery. Turnips, melons, squash, beets, green beans, cucumbers, potatoes, rhubarb, cabbages and cauliflowers are among the produce displayed in the five exhibits entered by the North and South Saanich Horticultural Society, Joe Unwin, Daughters of England, the Victoria Women's Institute and the Victoria Horticultural Society.

An increase in entries of 100 per cent is shown in the next division, that for boxes of fruits, including apples and pears of different types.

In this section, those of Langley, Victoria, Burnaby and Coquitlam are shown in that order from the left to right of the north wall and extending half way along the west side.

To the layman's eye, each seems to be nearly as good as the next, but the standard of roots, big and small, preserves, fruits, fresh and preserved, honey, grains, field produce and innumerable other items which go to make up these features, are big factors in the judging.

FINE DISPLAYS

Victoria's exhibit this year is particularly well balanced and rich in coloring, as is that of Burnaby and Langley. The Coquitlam display merits particular praise in view of the fact it is made up from produce which does not enjoy quite as large a range as that of the other districts.

Good samples of wheat, oats and barley are shown in a special grain section before which stands fine potatoes in sacks.

Among the richest and most exotic of all displays in the building are the marvelous exhibits of begonias from the city's nurseries at Beacon Hill. Scores of different varieties, some of flaming colors and others of most delicate shades present a spectacle of unusual beauty in their background of dark foliage and ferns. All tints of yellow, red and many other hues, including varigated varieties, are on view.

WATER PLANTS

In an attractively arranged display, centred with a pond in which goldfish swim about a pink water lily, the Lake View Aquatic Garden is showing many water plants, rock plants and ferns in a very natural setting.

Fuchsias of twenty varieties, imported from California, are shown by J. D. Hallam in a private non-competitive display. Of varying colors, they include the mauve and red Abbe Farges and Swamley Yellow. Seedums and succulents front the stand.

ROCKHOLME GARDENS

Cut-leaf dwarf maple, dwarf cedars and conifers, with Michaelmas daisies, delphiniums and other flowers of seasonal and rock garden varieties, lend dignity to the excellent display of the Rockholme Gardens.

The south side of the building to the south entrance is taken up largely with displays of nicely pressed flowers and leaves as well as beetles, while vases of cut flowers brighten up the shelves on which they are shown. A row of transparent pictures adorn the upper part of the wall.

Brown's Victoria Nurseries scores another triumph with its display of cut flowers to the east of the southern wall. Giant dahlias of many types, including bunches and single blossoms, each a model of perfection in color and shape, ferns, charms and pompons, as well as roses in bud and dahlias with the color of a sunburst, are featured.

NEAT EXHIBIT

In a particularly neat arrangement, the stall of James Canadian Seeds Limited of Duncan claims the eye on the east wall. The seeds are shown in small phials arranged with geometric precision which greatly enhances the exhibit.

Hybrid cactus dahlias, some of old gold and others of brighter colors, provide a splendid surrounding for the centrepiece composed of a basket of "Mrs. Duncan McTavish," shown by Elders Capitol Dahlias, Cedar Hill Road. The "Mrs. Duncan McTavish," one of several new varieties originated by Mr. Elder, is a delicate pink bloom which spans ten inches. Charms and mixed floral baskets are also included in the exhibit.

BIG SHOWING

The Layritz Nurseries have combined the products of the decorative garden with those of the more utilitarian in a double display. In the latter are fine boxes of apples, pears, peaches and other tree fruit. Just across the aisle is a magnificent display of late summer roses, outdoor grown. It is flanked with shrubs and evergreens, the color of which refreshes the eye and provides a fine foil for more brilliant flowers. Lilium speciosum, a giant lily, rubrum tropical, a Dutchman's pipe, California big tree, or Sequoia gigantia and a fine array of other shrubs help to make up the display, one of the largest in the section.

Close to the main entrance and adjacent to the Layritz exhibit, a table of big, golden mums, Michaelmas daisies and caskets of flowers are shown in profusion.

BANKS OF FLOWERS

Banks of hardy outside grown flowers, in which are sweet peas, gladioli, heleniums, zinias, Michaelmas daisies, mums, statice, blue larkspur and phlox, offer wide variety in a stall running down the middle of the hall towards the south wall. On the other side similar blooms are shown in the competitive lists in twenty by five feet blocks by the Daughters of England, Victoria Horticultural Society and the Victoria Women's Institute.

Nicely decorated tables, with centre pieces of stock, carnations, small dahlias and other blooms give the visitor an idea of the proper floral arrangement for a dinner table.

DAINTY DISPLAY

Particularly attractive is the dainty exhibit of the Flower and Fern Shoppe, with its pool and baskets hanging from a small arch. Bright begonia blooms, ferns, and other flowers occupy the centre of the display about the pond, while corner pieces of chrysanthemums and tiger lilies add to its attractiveness.

The major part of the northern half of the building is given over to garden and field produce, along with fruit. There melons of unusual size, squash, onions, large and small, cantaloupes, turnips, peas, rhubarb and tomatoes, yellow and red, are shown in abundance.

Bounding the northeast aisle are potted plants, ferns, geraniums and other indoor flowers.

In the middle of the building the special platform used for the opening ceremonies is bounded by window boxes of an attractive nature, while the steps leading into the hall are also flanked with potted blooms.

IRON FIREMAN DEMONSTRATED

Exhibit of Canadian Sumner Iron Works Ltd. Creates Interest at Fair

Those who are interested in an economical and uniform heat in their homes in the winter will be attracted by the Iron Fireman who is automatically demonstrating what it can do in the Willows Fair grounds.

The exhibit is located for demonstration purposes in a separate building adjacent to the fair offices, not far from the entrance gates, and is in charge of J. A. MacKay, combustion engineer, representing the manufacturers, the Canadian Sumner Iron Works Ltd. of Vancouver, assisted by Layton McLeod.

Automatic control and economy of operation are features of the Iron Fireman. The Vancouver Island coal used in the demonstrations is specially adapted to this form of scientific carburetion and is supplied by the Kingham-Gillespie Coal Company.

The operation of the Iron Fireman is governed by thermostatic or pressure controls, which start and stop the system automatically, holding boiler pressure, or water or room temperature, at any desired point.

PUBLICITY FOR ESQUIMALT PARK

Some valuable publicity for the new Saxe Point Park in Esquimalt has been secured in a recent issue of The New Flora and Silva, a horticultural publication of London.

Pictures of two giant arbutus trees located in the park are printed as fine specimens of the arbutus menziesii. One is eighty-three feet high and the other seventy-five feet.

The photos were published in the magazine through the courtesy of John Dean. An article dealing with the growth and bloom of the trees was also printed in the issue.

CLUB BUILDING IS RISING FAST

Contractors to Have Army and Navy Job Completed by Christmas

Erection of the new $35,000 Army and Navy Veterans' building is proceeding steadily at the northeast corner of Wharf and Broughton Streets.

The general contractor, David W. Burnett, stated to-day that the three-story building, which will be a handsome addition to the business section of the city, will be completed by the middle of December. The building is taking form in steel and concrete.

Concrete of the ground floor is in and forms are being completed for the pouring of concrete on the second story.

Subcontracts placed by the general contractor are as follows: Structural and reinforcing steel, Dominion Bridge Company Ltd., Vancouver, and millwork, Moore-Whittington Lumber Company, Victoria.

Mr. Burnett reports that approximately fifty workmen are employed on the Army and Navy project and other contracts held by the firm.

Other building work just handled by the firm includes a concrete tank retaining wall for the Shell Oil Company on the Industrial Reserve, 296 feet long and seven feet high, and resurfacing of the approaches to the Shell station at the intersection of Johnson and Blanshard Streets.

Mrs. Fraser Will Perform in March

Montreal, Sept. 10.—Mrs. W. G. Fraser, Ottawa, the former Alexa Stirling, yesterday evening accepted the invitation of President J. H. Davey of the Marlborough Golf Club, Montreal, to complete the foursome here next Sunday in which she will take sides against Joyce Wethered, former British women's open titleholder.

The mate players will be Gordon B. Taylor, Kanawaki, and Edwin A. Innes, Islemere. It has not been decided how the pairings will be made.

A volunteer fire brigade for Esquimalt, as proposed at a recent meeting of the municipal council, is not practicable for the municipality, Councillor Thomas Hadfield told the council yesterday evening. The fire and lights committee is investigating the possibility of having men stationed ready on call for a fire, at garages in the municipality, the councillor reported.

Payment of August accounts, totaling $11,859, was authorized by the Esquimalt council yesterday evening.

LIBERATOR of THE IRISH

IRELAND was struggling under control of the absentee Protestant nobility of England, when a great orator arose to lead the movement for liberation of his people. He was Daniel O'Connell, who, as "The Liberator," became a thorn in the sides of the British.

O'Connell saw the poverty in which the Irish Catholics were kept, and was determined to correct this condition. He formed the Catholic Association which quickly spread over Ireland. In 1828 he was elected to Parliament and within a year he was able to gain Catholic Emancipation for Ireland.

O'Connell later began agitating for repeal of the union, by which Ireland could become a free state. He was arrested, sentenced for one year and fined $10,000. But the House of Lords reversed the sentence. O'Connell, however, broken in health, faced opposition within his own ranks, and died crestfallen in 1847.

League Supported By Church Leader

Rev. M. E. Aubrey, Secretary of British Baptist Union, Says Action on Italo - Ethiopian Dispute Should Be Collective

By REV. M. E. AUBREY
General Secretary of the Baptist Union of Great Britain and Ireland

London, Sept. 10.—In the present grave, complicated and perplexing international situation I believe our people stand behind the government in the energetic and sustained efforts it is making for peace on the principle of collective security.

We have supported the League of Nations and are eager to see it effective. We have all along advocated general disarmament and have approved steps taken by successive governments to reduce the forces of of armaments in this country.

We regard Italy's apparent intention to resort to arms against Ethiopia without submitting the dispute to arbitration or the judgment of the League of Nations as unjustifiable and a breach of the Briand-Kellogg Peace Pact and her obligations under the League of Nations covenant.

FULL INQUIRY

We believe the League should hold a full inquiry and if its authority is flouted to pass judgment on the issues involved.

In the event of a judgment against one side or the other, many of our people favor the application of economic and diplomatic sanctions, but certainly a great number would be averse to going to war. Even if the League acted in concert, few if any would consent to our acting independently of the League.

SHARK SHOT NEAR NANAIMO

Canadian Press

Nanaimo, B.C., Sept. 10.—"Mac" Mathewson of Parksville, B.C., to-day displayed a 330-pound shark he beached and shot yesterday after a two-hour battle near the Vancouver Island summer resort.

Vancouver, Sept. 10.—Two men, believed by the police to be narcotic drug addicts, forced entry to the laboratory of the Infants' Hospital here early yesterday.

Employees of the hospital were aroused by the intruders and notified police. The men escaped, however, before the officers arrived. It is not yet known if anything was obtained by the burglars.

GENERAL MOTORS OFFICIAL HERE

A. H. STEVENS

dealer-business management manager for General Motors Products of Canada Ltd. of Oshawa, Ont., is in Victoria to-day to meet the company's dealers here. The meeting is in the form of a conference of the men on the coast who market Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Pontiac, Buicks and G.M.C. trucks.

In the General Motors party at the Empress Hotel to-day is T. Applegath, Vancouver zone manager, who is presiding over the conference.

On his first trip to the coast this season, Mr. Stevens finds the west making a gratifying comeback.

HAS PRAISE FOR CANADA

Rex Beach, on Return From Pacific Coast, Says It Is Ideal For Writers

Montreal, Sept. 10.—Canada holds more unexplored possibilities, both for writers and sportsmen, than any other country, declared Rex Beach, internationally known writer, who reached Montreal on the Continental Limited of the Canadian National Railways, yesterday. Mr. Beach was returning from a trip which took him to Alaska via Canada. In Alaska he visited the settlement projects of the United States government and also renewed acquaintances in the territories he knew when he began writing his series of gold rush books.

In Canada he paused long enough at Jasper National Park in the Rockies to test the new rainbow trout fishing at Amethyst Lake in the Tonquin Valley, and, he declared, it more than lived up to advance notices.

"I talked fishing with people from Jasper to the coast," declared Mr. Beach, "and I am convinced that in addition to this marvelous rainbow trout fishing at Amethyst, where I was a member of the first party to fish the lake since its planting, you have unequalled rainbow trout fishing from Jasper to the Pacific Coast.

"Canada is full of interest; there are so many things going on here. The exploration work which is being done all over Canada, with airplanes and other means for the discovery of mineralized areas, is an object lesson to the world. I advised the Alaska people to take a leaf out of Canada's book. Do you know, there isn't a prospector left in Alaska to-day, while northern Canada is just full of them? And in Canada they are getting results. As for writers, there is so much going on in Canada to-day that it is an ideal country for them. You have new experiments in government (referring to Alberta); you have romance; you have everything to keep a writer busy. As for the sportsman, you have marvelous hunting, fishing and anything else he wants."

Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, Gives Formal Opening Address at Willows; Life Membership Given Pioneer Stock Man

The excellence in the quality of exhibits at the annual fair of the British Columbia Agricultural Association was seen as a very encouraging sign by Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, as he presented the opening address at Victoria's fall fair at the Willows yesterday.

The standard of displays in the Main Building from which he spoke, indicated a renewed development in agriculture, the minister noted. Continuing, he added, the prosperity of the farmer played a large part in determining the prosperity of the province.

His remarks, and those of other speakers, were carried over a public address system to hundreds who thronged the different buildings for the opening ceremonies.

During the afternoon an honorary life membership in the association was conferred upon H. Webb, Chilliwack, pioneer livestock man and supporter of fairs. Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, former premier, bestowed the honor upon the veteran agricultural figure, for what he has done for exhibitions in British Columbia.

Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins, president of the association, acted as chairman, and introduced the speakers, after conveying a general welcome to the public.

UP TO PUBLIC

"The management has done the best it could to present a first-class exhibition. The livestock section is one of the best we have had. The animals are of high standard, as are the poultry and other exhibits. It is up to the public now to support the fair with high attendances all week," he stated.

He paid a tribute to the exhibitors before calling upon Alderman P. R. Brown, who represented the city in the absence of Mayor Leeming, to speak.

Alderman Brown referred to the fact the exhibition had been carried on in good and bad times alike. In view of the investment the exhibition grounds represented to the citizens of Victoria, it was part of their duty to look after it by supporting the fair, he said.

He spoke of the splendid condition of the grounds and buildings and declared he did not think the city had ever been represented by a more able delegation than it had at present on the B.C. Agricultural Association board.

B.C. PRODUCTS

Alderman Brown drew the gathering's attention to the number of British Columbia products, both natural and manufactured displayed in the fair, and suggested they merited the highest support.

Closing, he urged the citizens generally to make Wednesday, set aside by the mayor as "Citizens' Day," a red letter day.

Reeve R. V. Mayhew, of Oak Bay, welcomed the assembly on behalf of his municipality in which the grounds are located.

The present exhibition marked the seventy-fourth year of progress in quantity and quality of exhibits, he said, before expressing the hope the fair, which drew 100 visitors when it was first organized, would attract the patronage of 100,000 this week.

"I'd like to call attention to the exhibits in this building," he remarked, referring to the flowers and agricultural produce. "Nothing is going to build up this city as much as beautification," he stated, adding the displays in the Main Building furnished an inspiration for beautification.

VANCOUVER LEADER HEARD

Walter Leek, president of the Vancouver exhibition body, paid tribute to the local association for the courage and hard work it had shown in maintaining the fair during trying times.

Exhibitions, he noted, developed and encouraged the production of farms and factories. They also showed results in other enterprise, he added, stating bank clearances during the week of the Vancouver fair had been up $3,500,000 over the same week of the preceding year.

Closing, he wished the local association ever success in its present exhibition.

Dr. Tolmie took the floor to tell the story of H. Webb, referring to the days when he came to British Columbia to hew out for himself a cabin and a farm near Chilliwack. His was an example that should be kept before the youth of British Columbia to-day, an example of courage and strength of character.

Realizing the value of fairs, Mr. Webb had followed them in British Columbia for the last sixty-six years, Dr. Tolmie stated.

Dr. Tolmie pointed to Toronto's appreciation of the worth of exhibitions by noting 2,000,000 visitors were attracted to the fair there each year.

GIVEN LIFE MEMBERSHIP

He recalled the progress of Victoria and Vancouver exhibitions, and then presented to Mr. Webb, on behalf of the association, a life membership.

Mr. Webb spoke briefly after expressing his thanks for the honor conferred upon him. He recalled early fairs and related anecdotes regarding Dr. Tolmie's famous "chaperonage" of a shorthorn bull.

Hon. K. C. MacDonald, in remarks as pithy as they were concise, told the gathering of the provincial government's interest, not only in the local fair but outside exhibitions. They all made very valuable contributions to the agricultural life of British Columbia.

He remarked upon the excellence of the local exhibits and expressed his appreciation of the encouragement derived from the increase in the size of the local fair. It would deservedly attract thousands to the Willows during the week, he stated.

In addition to the speakers, D. D. McTavish, Alderman J. D. Hunter and W. T. Straith, directors of the association, Alec Patterson, cattle figure, and W. H. Mearns, exhibition secretary-manager, occupied seats on the platform.

HEATHER FARM WINS AWARDS

Captain Charles Wilson's Herd Highly Judged in Strong Jersey Class

Colorful Display In Industrial Building

Products of Victoria's Industries, as Presented in Varied Form at Fair, Merit Visits By Citizenry

In a gala display of color, neatness and artistry, Victoria's industries and their respective products are exhibited to visitors in the Industrial Building at the Willows Exhibition.

Many of the exhibits indicate considerable time, money and labor spent in preparation, and are worthy of a visit by the citizenry during Fair Week. All the major crafts and industries of the city are represented, the products being attractively arranged, with courteous demonstrators on hand to show their wares.

On entering the building and proceeding down the north side, the visitors first see the exhibit of the Home Furniture Company, where the latest styles in bedroom, living-room and dining-room suites are shown. These are beautifully decorated with brightly colored covers and present one of the beauty spots of the building.

Literature and facts concerning the constant war against tuberculosis are obtainable at a stall arranged by the Victorian Order of Nurses, in conjunction with the City Health Department and the Kiwanis Club. Miss A. Creasor is in charge.

HOLSUM PACKING COMPANY

All manner of canned and bottled produce are shown by the Holsum Packing Company, which has a neatly arranged stall where all its products are on sale, including vegetables and fruits, attractively packed.

Easy washers and electric ironers, Westinghouse radios and refrigerators and various other appliances which they handle are being exhibited by Kent's Limited.

Latest styles for floor enameling, in which stippling in all colors is predominant, are displayed by the Bapco Paint Company. The different shades in which this work is available are shown.

The new all-British Phillips air purifier and conditioner, which performs multitudinous duties, including cleaning, brushing, sweeping and even painting, while at the same time it purifies the atmosphere of the home, is being demonstrated at Jim Bryant's stall. Mr. Bryant is also showing the new local-made Norub washer, Sparton products, Bryant amplifiers and radios.

PLANNING NEW COURSE

The Y.W.C.A. presents an exhibit where literature is obtainable on the new programme in girls' work which the association is planning. Miss M. I. Ryan, a graduate of the Margaret Eaton Training School at Toronto, is in charge.

The latest model in Hupmobiles is being exhibited by the Masters Motor Company Limited.

Silverware, glassware, optical instruments, clocks and picture frames, all of which are suitable for gift purposes, are seen in a large exhibition arranged by Little and Taylor, local jewelers.

One of the most interesting of the Industrial Building exhibits is that arranged by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Here visitors may see the work of the blind in progress as A. H. Crocker engages in the various arts which sightless persons have perfected. He is assisted at the stall by Mrs. Crocker and Miss Stark, the local home teacher. The work includes weaving, metal works, knitting, beadwork and basket-making.

The Beatty washer and ironer, the 1935 vacuum cleaner and the latest washer edition, with two speeds, is featured in the display arranged by the local Beatty representatives.

PICTURES SHOWN

The Sidney Roofing and Paper Company has a large corner of the building occupied with its display, featuring Duroid shingles. There is also a "Ten Test" room in the exhibit which is advertised as being sound proof, cold proof and heat proof. In this room moving pictures of Stan Laurel, of the comedy team of Laurel and Hardy, are shown nightly, in addition to operations of the Vancouver plant.

Literature dealing with courses available at the International Correspondence School, featuring Diesel engine instruction, is available at the display arranged by John Wood, local I.C.S. representative.

The Singer Sewing Machines Limited are demonstrating their new models, including the portable machine, and also Singer irons.

A device which oil-burner users will be interested in, which will make a burner light at a given time, is displayed by William Inglis, local oil-burner engineer and plumber, whose invention is on display. All you have to do is to set the alarm clock at night, and when you get out of bed in the morning the kettle is boiling and coffee is percolating without having the burner going all night. The device lights automaticaly and can be attached to any type of burner. A demonstration explains how you can put on your dinner, set the clock, go to a show and return home to find the dinner cooked as by electricity or gas. A bathroom set is also on display.

Peace metal weather strips and their particular advantage in protection from wind and rain are demonstrated by B. T. Leigh. He is also showing interlocking thresholds and rolling screens.

NEW DRINK ADVERTISED

The delicious new drink mixer, King's Court, which is finding popular favor everywhere, is featured in attractive color at the Old English Beverage stall. Lime Rickey and other mixers are included, while the new product is advertised as possessing the complete mixing qualities of the other products.

Egyptian Black Tulip and Egyptian Sweet Tulip perfumes are shown to the ladies at Birk's stall.

Canadian-made staples are predominant at the exhibition arranged by Bostitch Canada Limited. The new streamlined paper fastener is also being demonstrated.

Everything which a buyer might find in the warehouse of McLennan, McFeely and Prior, including Maytag washers, Westinghouse radios, Good Cheer ranges and silverware, is shown in the firm's display.

Demonstrations of mattress-making are given on scheduled times by the Victoria Bed and Mettress Company in the southwest corner of the building. Beds, bed covers and chesterfields are also featured. New spring-felt mattresses under construction are exhibited.

Canadian Products In Special Section

Manufacturers' Building at Willows Contains Many Exhibits of Interest; Hall of Science Is Impressive

In the Manufacturers' Building, just inside the main gates of the Exhibition Grounds, are the displays of Victoria's leading department stores. All feature, wherever possible articles manufactured in Victoria, in British Columbia and in Canada. Just about everything needed to make the modern home smart and attractive can be seen in this building.

In the balcony of this building are various art displays which are quite up to the standard set in these works in former years. The school exhibits are very good and Fair patrons can spend an interesting hour or two in this section. There are displays of commercial art, lettering, posters and pictures of various kinds. Model ships and airplanes can be seen on this floor, as can home-made trays and chests and novelties. What a person can do in spare time is well shown in this section.

Some very fine pictures are also seen. They include water colors and oils and pastels, many of them handsomely framed. Victoria-made pottery is displayed on two or three tables of its own. This hobby is being taken up by a large group of Victorians, who have a really worthwhile display at the Exhibition this year.

FINE PHOTOGRAPHS

CANADIAN-MADE RUGS

David Spencer Limited this year has given its large floor space over to carpets and rugs manufactured in Canada. From the display is seen that this country can make carpets and rugs quite as good, and certainly as attractive, as the countries which long have been famous for these articles. In the Spencer section are seen carpets and rugs that range in price from those suited to the purse of the average person to those which would grace a twenty-room mansion. Modernistic chairs and smart floor lamps make the rug and carpet display tasty and attractive.

MODERN KITCHEN

Jameson's Electrical Limited has a modern kitchen built in its booth. A feature is the electric dish-washer, which drys the dishes as well as washes them. The latest in sinks and electric stoves, as well as the latest in kitchen lighting, can be seen. Over the sink is a system of indirect lighting that throws no shadows. In such a kitchen the work of the housewife is reduced to a minimum. No longer would kitchen chores be unpleasant. On the other hand, they would be made decidedly happy.

HUDSON'S BAY DISPLAY

The Hoover, one of the most popular vacuum cleaners in North America, has the feature place in the large booth occupied by the Hudson's Bay Company. Willing salesmen are on hand to explain the beauties of a Hoover to the interested public. Radios in beautiful design, and all moderately priced, occupy the centre section, while another section shows a neat maid serving Fort Garry tea and coffee, the H.B.C. special brands which are now having such a large sale in Victoria.

ELECTRICAL APPLIANCES

Everything electrical for the modern home is to be seen in the display by the B.C. Electric. It would be possible to furnish a home in electrical appliances from this stall. There are electric clocks, electric washing machines, radios and other electrical marvels too numerous to mention. All are neatly displayed and not a householder goes by this stall without an envious look. Attendants explain how easy it is to own any article nowadays on a monthly payment plan.

Scott & Peden, one of Victoria's oldest established feed merchants, has a display showing everything that is needed for the farm, for the garden and for people who own dogs. It is surprising how attractive a display of this kind can be made with a little thought and hard work.

TO BRIGHTEN HOMES

A gleaming floor that would make any home look smart is set in the display of the Vancouver Island Hardwood Floor Company. Such a floor would be very easy to keep clean, and its brightness would certainly add to the cheerfulness of any room.

OIL BURNERS

Now that oil burners are so much discussed, the display by the B. C. Oil Burners' Distributors is of much interest. There are all types and anyone thinking of installing an oil burner this winter would be well repaid to visit this stall and chat with the attendants, who would be only too willing an answer any questions.

RED CROSS WORK

The men of the Red Cross Workshop, all of whom were injured during the war, have their usual fine display in a section of the Manufacturer's Building. There can be seen many articles that are a daily necessity in the average home. Householders would do well to remember this workshop when anything is needed. They would be getting their money's worth and would also be helping to keep in employment these men who are unable to work at anything else because of their injuries.

The W. H. Malkin Company has one of the largest booths in the building. One section is given over to those very good confections manufactured by Peek, Frean & Company of London, and for which the Malkin Company is British Columbia distributor. Malkin's jams and jellies, teas and coffees are also shown, and Fair patrons are invited to pause and have a cup as they walk around.

The Gainer Company, which cures hams and bacons, known as "Superior," has an exhibit, complete with the little pig that has made this brand so famous.

Y.M.C.A. FIRST AID

At the Y.M.C.A. section is a first aid tent, which, it is hoped, will not be needed too often. But it is nice to know it is there, and first aid work in the hands of these experts is quite safe. Many interesting pictures of local sportsmen turned out by the local association can be seen. Posters tell the advantages of becoming a member.

Eddy's Shop on Douglas Street, which deals in women's ready-to-wear clothes, has a corner of this building. Many smart models can be seen. The Old English Beverage Company has a stall where patrons may stop and become refreshed.

WOMEN'S WORK

The Junior Red Cross is represented and several energetic women have a booth where are sold articles to help along the cause of the Queen Alexandra Solarium. Other women's organizations are represented in this building, and Fair patrons may buy chances on attractive articles from them.

HALL OF SCIENCE

The Miniature Hall of Science at the Exhibition is a worthy effort on the part of several of Victoria's enthusiastic and learned young scientists. It is in the building formerly occupied by the motor cars, and a visit to it is well worth while. Much can be learned from those in charge, who conduct parties about and explain things as they go.

There are all sorts of weird and gruesome things in the first room. There are skeletons of lizards, bullfrogs, guinea pigs and rattlesnakes, and skulls of humans, beavers, dogs and monkeys. There are snakes in bottles and several fine displays of rare and beautiful butterflies.

The members of the local branch of the Royal Astronomical Society lent a number of instruments to the Hall of Science, and they are of great interest. Everyone, it seems, is vaguely fond of astronomy, and the number of people that visited this section on the first day was surprising.

Still another section in the Hall of Science shows how radio and telegraph messages are dispatched, while another section shows the progress being made in television. Modern traffic control, as used in London and many of the larger cities in the United States, is also shown.

Widow Spider Is On Show at Fair

Midway Is Magnet In Fair Thrills

Amusement Zone at Willows Park Provides Joyful Diversion For Crowds Thronging Exhibition Grounds; Maximum of Fun With Added Mechanical Features and Sideshows

All the thrills of the fair are concentrated on the Midway at the Willows Park, and the public is having a joyous time taking in the sights and getting the maximum of enjoyment out of the amusement zone.

The exhibition buildings are packed with interest for the thousands of citizens who this week will pass through the turnstiles, but the real fun and glamorous excitement will be confined to the Midway, which this year is equal to anything that has been offered previously for the entertainment of the public.

There is plenty of highly-exciting diversion for people of all ages.

The musical clamor of the Midway acts as a magnet immediately the grounds are entered.

The Browning Amusement Company, which holds the concessions, has seen to it that all who visit the fair will get all the thrills they are looking for and with good measure thrown in.

Fun holds away on every hand.

The carnival spirit is infectious, and the merrymakers carry on with care-free abandon. The youngsters are in their element. Parents unbend and enter with zest into the spirit of the fair.

DIZZY WHIRLS

For those who wish to pay to make themselves dizzy, the Tilt-a-whirl holds its place as favorite with the sensation-seeking crowd.

After a session of this crazy gyrating you are just about in the right humor for a hair-raising ride in another concession thriller, the Loop-a-plane, which provides all the sensations of airplane stunting without running the risks.

The Ferris wheel is a fair attraction which has always claimed quota patronage and the crowds are to be seen lining up for a ride on this popular sky wheel. The great wheel is so placed that not only the fair grounds but also a greater part of the city can be viewed as the car-occupants revolve to dizzy heights. A smaller wheel is in operation this year for the kiddies.

The flying boats for the youngsters is an innovation which is attracting a lot of attention. Then there are the gliders, which swing you out into space in a breath-taking whirl, all part of the Midway's varied attractions.

MORE SIDESHOWS

The sideshows are more numerous and varied this year. There is the Temple of Mystery with Cazar, the girl Houdini, and Vantine, the great magician. Fun in a Hayloft is all that it implies, and nearby is Jungleland with its snake enchantress and the Browning freak shows. Yet another show advertises Nevada Law, featuring cowboys and cowgirls with expert ropers and sharpshooters.

The sideshows occupy one side of the amusement concession.

The main avenue of the Midway is lined with the customary games of chance with their raucous-raised barkers inviting the people to obtain something for nothing.

Altogether, the Midway is an attractive magnet that will hold strong appeal for the majority.

"GLAD" DISPLAY SHOWS LATEST

In a setting of hundreds of thousands of lovely flowers in the Main Building at the Willows Fair, the gladioli and forced bulb display of R. H. Palmer stands out.

In a lovely bank of color, hundreds of varieties of this favorite autumn flower can be seen. Some of the very latest are on show, including some of Mr. Palmer's own originations.

There is Picardy, which is well known to gardeners all over the world, and Richard I, a large salmon, and Champlain, a beautiful blue.

INATTENTION BAD HABIT

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Molly, seventeen, goes to the telephone. Someone announces himself and Molly gets it like a shot. "Oh, Bill, I thought it was you. What are you doin'?"

"Just sittin' here. Talkin' to you."

"Huh?" says Molly. Bill repeats it. Then he says, "What are you doin'?"

"Huh?" says Molly again. Bill says, "What are you doing "

Molly says, Oh, nothing. Just reading."

Bill asks Molly what she was reading.

She says "Huh?" again, and Bill tries hard to remember that Molly's curls are golden and her eyes very blue. After a few dozen "huh's" he is vaguely irritated although he is only subconsciously aware of her stupid habit.

HABIT ESCAPES DETECTION

She hears perfectly well the first time but will not rouse her attention to the sticking point and lets the idea soak in by absorption. It is the laziest and most slovenly trick in the world, this of putting all the work on another. If Bill had said he had been trying to find out the difference between ichthyology and entomology, Molly would have been justified perhaps in asking for a repetition, but it is the case with the sticky-minded that nothing at all soaks in at the first telling; easy or hard, it is all the same.

Children pick up this habit so easily that a mother or even a teacher may let it go unnoticed. They patiently repeat every sentence they utter. This mental lethargy is almost as blameworthy as the other.

At the moment I have in mind two families in whose homes no right-minded person could stay completely sane for twenty-four hours. Each member of the family has to repeat whatever he says twice. Each one asks to be told over again. A day is a succession of echoes that tell a tale of inattention if not actual stupidity.

ALUMNAE PLANS FALL ACTIVITY

Jubilee Society Presents Bursary; Silver Tea and Dance Arranged

Miss Vera Mae Freeman was formally presented with the $100 bursary, annually given by the Jubilee Hospital Alumnae to the Jubilee graduate in good standing desirous of taking post-graduate work, at the monthly meeting of the association held yesterday evening at the Nurses' Home.

Miss L. Mitchell, supervisor of nursing, made the presentation on behalf of the Alumnae, congratulating the winner and wishing her every success in her chosen career. The gift was accompanied by a corsage bouquet of roses from Miss Mirfield, who presided in the absence of the president, Miss E. Rossiter.

Various projects designed for the raising of funds were considered at the business meeting. The annual silver tea will be held at the Nurses' Home early in November.

Mrs. G. Bothwell, president of the Alumnae Dramatic Club, will convene the musical programme to be given in connection with the tea. There will be stalls, convened as follows: Home cooking, Mrs. G. M. Duncan and Mrs. J. Walls; novelties, Miss E. Rose; handkerchiefs, Miss D. Hibberson; candy, Miss M. Dixon. Fortune-telling is also to be featured.

A dance will be held shortly after Christmas; a bridge party early in December; a contest for a prize, this to extend over three months, and the drawing for a Christmas cake which Miss Mirfield has once again generously undertaken to present.

In addition to the annual $100 bursary, the alumnae has to raise funds for various other purposes: The needs of the sick committee, which sends flowers to members who are ill or in hospital; for the expenses of the visiting committee, and for the upkeep of the alumnae ward at the Jubilee Hospital and the provision of Christmas cheer for the patients there.

Refreshments were served during the social hour that followed the business session last night, Mrs. W. H. Russell being convener.

C.G.I.T. HELD BUSY RETREAT

Miss Anne Fountain Challenges Leaders in Inspiring Addresses

The third annual week-end retreat of the Victoria C.G.I.T. Leaders' Council of Greater Victoria was held on Saturday and Sunday at Sooke Harbor House, Whiffen Spit. The gathering was well attended by C.G.I.T. leaders and other representatives from the various churches of the city.

After the supper hour on Saturday evening a sing-song was held, followed by a recreational period in charge of Miss Margaret Ryan.

The opening message of the conference was given in an inspirational worship service by Mrs. Maude Hammond at the close of the Saturday evening session. A full day's conference was held on Sunday, opening with morning worship, led by Miss Ethel Rhodes. A discussion took place on "The Needs of a Girl," led by Miss Margaret Ryan, girls' work secretary of the Y.W.C.A. This discussion proved a valuable help to the leaders.

Miss Anne Fountain, B.A., girls' work secretary of the province, followed up this discussion with "The Needs of the Leader. A leader needs to have a real religious conviction, and must be prepared, not only in facts and knowledge, but also in Bible study, worship, a deeper understanding of God, and a real understanding of the girls with whom she is working, she claimed.

As C.G.I.T. leaders and Sunday school workers, it was the job of the leader to lead the girl in a search for truth. Miss Fountain emphasized the fact that a leader must grow in knowledge, in spiritual life and in prayer.

After lunch, Miss Fountain gave the report of the senior provincial girls' camp, which corresponds to the Tuxis Boys' Parliament. This camp was held at Ocean Park, and the girls who attended, passed on recommendations to the Provincial Girls' Work Board in connection with the improvement of the C.G.I.T. movement in the province. These were dealt with at length by the group. The Leaders' Council and Girls' Council recommendations were presented by Miss Lilian Parfitt, chairman of the Leaders' Council, and Miss Minnie Beveridge, sponsor of the Girls' Council.

At the evening session, after the singing of hymns, the closing message to the conference was brought by Miss Fountain, with a challenge to the leaders "to live and work dangerously"; to go forth in the steps of the Master; to be co-workers with Him with an earnest desire to bring the Kingdom of God into its own right.

The conference was presided over by Miss Lilian Parfitt, and Miss Gladys Beall and Mrs. Marian Thompson acted as hostess. The programme and transportation arrangements were in the hands of Miss L. McCall, Miss C. Crawford and Mrs. W. P. Freeman, and Miss Olive Lynn was in charge of publicity.

Your Baby And Mine

HOW BABY'S FEEDING SCHEDULES HAS CHANGED IN SEVENTEEN YEARS!

When I first began writing this column on baby care seventeen years ago, the six or seven meal a day schedule was the familiar one. And it was an improvement over the method of feeding a baby every time it cried. But since then the changes in time and method and contents of children's diet have been enormous and rapid.

At this time I know more than a score of babies from three to five months of age who are getting not five meals a day, but three. This means exactly that they are fed at 7, 12, and 7 and in the afternoon, like any grownup with his tea, they may have a small cup of milk.

They sleep from six to six or seven to seven at night. Without exception these babies weigh more than the average, though they were average weight babies at birth.

FEWER MEALS

They get more milk at each feeding, and more solid food than was thought advisable some years ago, but as an answer to any criticism, they are as fat and husky and happy a lot as any mother could imagine.

The number of meals a day, is of far less importance to baby's health—provided he isn't fed too often—than the contents of those meals. Babies do better on five meals a day to begin with, and once they are well established on the formula chosen for them, whatever it may happen to be, the number of meals can be slowly diminished, with no loss to the baby.

Mrs. F. H. has a ten months old baby weighing twenty-two and one-half pounds. He is fed at 7, 12, and 5.30 and goes to bed at 6 for the night.

THREE SQUARE MEALS

He gets at his 7 o'clock breakfast, ten ounces of dried milk formula, and two tablespoons of a precooked cereal and he gets this same meal at night, plus a teaspoonful of a vitamin D product. At 12 he has one small potato, a four ounce can of vegetables cooked for babies, and ten ounces of formula.

"Baby suffers from a breaking out on the buttocks," writes him mother. "This cleared up for a time when we took spring water out of his diet, but now, after giving him water again, it has broken out."

Two things cry out for improvement. The natural alkaline influences of orange juice, and cooked fruits, are absent in the diet.

LOTS OF WATER

It is impossible to conceive of water being anything but helpful for this condition. I suggest a larger proportion of cereal for breakfast and only eight ounces of milk and the juices of an orange. At noon, use some part of the extra milk to make a junket or custard, cut the amount of vegetables in half, serve only eight ounces of milk. Egg in some form is part of this meal.

At night the present amount of cereal is all right, but add two tablespoons of any cooked fruit such as prunes, apples, apricots or peaches. Give eight ounces of milk. Let baby have a drink of water any time between meals.

To-morrow: "Baby's Appetite Should Improve With Cooler Weather."

A new church in London will be used for religious services on Sunday and as a motion picture theatre the rest of the week.

Age-old Crafts Revived By Institute Women

Weaving, Spinning, Fine Stitchery and Other Leisurely Arts Featured in Women's Building at Willows Fair

Wandering through the Women's Building at the Provincial Exhibition at the Willows is like turning back the pages of time. In an age when speed is the dominant note, women have reverted to the leisurely age-old crafts which call for deft fingers and infinite patience, for constant application and slow progress, in contrast to the mass production, machine methods of the present day.

CREDIT DUE TO W.I.

Hand weaving and spinning, lace making and embroidery, quilting and petit point, fine stitchery and knitting, all are represented in the comprehensive display which makes up the women's section, and even to the most casual observer it must be apparent that not a little of the credit for the revival of these dying arts is due to the initiative and stimulus of the Women's Institute movement.

Institute members are represented, not only in the composite exhibits but in large proportion in the individual exhibits in each and every class in the women's section. Whether it be in plain or fancy cooking, canning and preserving, rugmaking, knitting, weaving, fashioning attractive garments out of old, the W.I member is well to the fore.

WEAVERS' GUILD

One of the most striking evidences of Women's Institute collective effort is the splendid display staged by the recently organized Weavers' Guild of the Victoria W.I. Under the enthusiastic leadership of Mrs. J. L. White, a number of "veteran" weavers, as well as many raw recruits, have, in the few months of the guild's existence, amassed a splendid collection of hand-woven and hand-dyed articles, combining artistic beauty and durability.

The weavers include Mrs. S. Carmichael, Mrs. W. F. I. Howell, who also studied design and stitchery at the South Kensington School of Needlework in London, England, Mrs. Geo. Thomson, Mrs. Geo. Anstey, Mrs. M. N. Hocking, Mrs. Foster (Mayne Island), Mrs. F. W. Urquhart, Miss Knevitt, Mrs. Menkus, Mrs. Ivor Austin, Mrs. M. C. Findlay and others.

In a Colonial setting, complete with red-brick fireplace, maple furniture and four-poster bed (loaned by the Standard Furniture Company), the looms and their products have been set up most effectively. The charming cottage curtains, in soft browns and orange, at the windows were hand-woven and dyed by Mrs. A. Sherman, Mrs. Thomson, Mrs. Howell and Mrs. Austin. Mrs. Findlay made the blankets and blue and white coverlet on the bed; Mrs. Foster made the handsome rug.

Most attractive hand-made coats and skirts, in exquisite coloring, scarfs, "throws," shopping bags and purses, skirt lengths and other products made by these enthusiastic and talented workers, are on display.

Mrs. Arnold, one of the "veterans" at weaving, is showing specimens of her beautiful tweeds and other products of the loom, while her son, I. B. Arnold, has made a bedside lamp in the form of a model spinning wheel. Mrs. Thomson and Mrs. Girling are showing some of their warm, cosy sweaters made from B.C. wool, hand spun and dyed by themselves.

A number of looms have been set up, some made by Mr. E. Smart and others by Mr. Ivor Austin, while carding machines and spinning wheels are also being demonstrated by the weavers.

BASKETRY AND CANEWORK

In addition to the beautiful woven exhibits, there is a cane chair, made entirely by Mrs. Sexton, which rivals anything of the kind which is imported from the Orient. Mrs. Hornsby, Mrs. S. Hunter and Miss Maynard are showing several seagrass plaited stools and fireside seats and a bedside table with a separate tray is a useful piece of furniture. Mrs. Hamilton's baskets are most effective, while Mrs. Sexton's flower baskets and a hooked rug by Mrs. Menkus harmonizes with the general "cottage" appearance of the room.

In addition to the two composite exhibits by Victoria W.I. and the Comox W.I. on the top floor, there is a fine collection of hand-made rugs, the work of which shows a decided improvement over previous years.

MADE HER OWN DYES

Of especial interest, though not a prizewinner, is the little door rug made by Mrs. E. Tuck of wool spun from Angora sheep on her farm and most artistically dyed with home-made dyes produced from roots, herbs and bark found in the nearby woods.

The rayon rag rugs are another tribute to women's ingenuity, some most artistic ones having been fashioned from discarded underwear and silk stockings. This spirit of thrift is also responsible for the excellent and varied showing in the "thrift" class, some amazing "creations" having been evolved from cast-off clothing, flour sacks and similar humble materials.

A VETERAN'S QUILT

As usual the quilt section is interesting, though the entries seem to be much fewer in number than last year. The fan pattern is a popular one, this having been chosen by the makers of the two prize-winning quilts.

In the embroidered quilts, considerable interest is being taken in the work of a veteran, W. Beddington of Saanich, who has fashioned a most faithful picture in silk embroidery of a pastoral scene on a birthday card, the original being attached to the corner of the quilt for the sake of comparison. This was deservedly awarded a special prize.

In the "over seventy" class, the quality of the work and the fine stitchery shows that these veteran needlewomen can challenge many of the younger generation in this field, needlework, tatting, crochet and knitting being represented by some excellent examples.

Exquisite hand-made lace and crochet are notable in the section devoted to this, one of the most interesting exhibits being a beautifully-made pair of filet crochet gloves, a reflection of the prevailing fashion for openwork gloves for summer wear. The embroidery section is also a comprehensive one, with dresses, tea-cloths, pillowslips and similar dainty articles in evidence.

VARIETY IN CRAFTS

Variety is the keynote of the arts and crafts section, which embraces crepe paperwork of every description; door stops, including an amusing velvet parrot perched on a branch; embroidered pictures, among them a Silver Jubilee souvenir, a portrait of His Majesty set in a frame embroidered with the date and flags and flowers; mounted trays, including one showing wild flowers of Vancouver Island, while the wild lily, pressed, has been effectively used in the decoration of a novel lampshade.

The home-cooking and canning section has been augmented this year by an interesting exhibit of Christmas puddings, fruit cakes, iced cakes, including a wedding cake, a bride's cake and a Silver Jubilee cake, also delectable-looking chocolates.

Salt Spring Island has an interesting exhibit of rugs made from wool produced on the island, showing the possibilities of this cottage industry.

Directly at the entrance of the building the Totem Manufacturing Company is displaying its special cleaning pastes and polishing materials in liquid form. Under the trade name "Klenzit," are shown tins of soap for hands as well as baths, sinks, linoleum, paint work and tiles. The stall is nicely arranged, and has claimed the interest of almost all who have visited that building.

AHMAK RUGS

The Ahmak rugs being shown in the Women's Building are attracting a great many people who are looking for something interesting and practical. The equipment for this weaving is very simple and inexpensive, which is an additional feature in its favor.

Many tourists from all parts of the country have shown keen interest in these rugs which are rich in color and of a firm, deep pile. This display is unique in so far as this is the only Exhibition where this handicraft has been shown. This craft affords everyone an opportunity to express themselves in an original way. Those who have already taken it up find it a delightful pastime.

Mrs. McLeish is in charge of this display and demontrates the designing and the entire equipment for rug weaving.

Not until recently was a canopy placed over Omar Khayyam's tomb at Nishapur, India, although he has been dead since 1123. Admirers in other countries sought this recognition.

CORNELIA OTIS SKINNER A ONE-WOMAN THEATRE

Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner is one of the most singular attractions the stage ever has seen, because she can be a complete theatre in herself. She is author, producer, director, costume designer and performer of all the roles.

Only a few years ago she was a monologist on the platforms of women's clubs. Then came her first full-length series of character sketches, "The Wives of Henry VIII." The following season her attention turned to the Empress Eugenie, and after that the loves of Charles II. These portrayals of queens, mistresses and trollops were variously called solodramas and, monodramas, even monopoly logues.

But no matter how you defined them, they still were not of the full stature of the true theatre. I mean to say that they were sketches, not plays.

Miss Skinner has recently written a play. Not a sketch, but a play with substance and sequence and the character treatment of a novel. She acts it for all it is worth, and it is worth a great deal. Through successive scenes she plays the roles of six women, and the dialogues of these women make the story live.

"Mansion on the Hudson" is the title. Back in 1880 it is a fine old mansion on the Hudson in which Mrs. Stanley Howland finds herself languishing in comfort and security, mother of three children and chatelaine of the estate called "Tall Trees."

The only trouble is that Stanley Howland drinks and gambles, and spends most of his time at the race tracks. Julia Howland hears a proposal of elopement from an erstwhile suitor. Hears it and almost yields. But just then her younger boy falls from one of the tall trees, and her impulse is checked by realization of her duty, as she sees it.

Next you see Mrs. Stanley Howland, Jr., This is eighteen years later, and Sally, a Gibson girl from the south, has married the elder boy and is mistress of Tall Trees. Nominal mistress, at least. Other members of the household are the drunkard younger brother, who wants to be an artist, and Carrie, the sister who faces spinsterhood rather than have anything to do with low-born Kelly, of the Kellys whose house neighbors the estate.

CORNELIA OTIS SKINNER

Stanley, Jr., has gone to the Spanish-American War, and word comes that he has died of typhoid fever before even reaching Cuba. So the scene shifts to 1920, when Carrie Howland, really an old maid by now, is forced by her younger brother's drinking and market gambling to sell the house and estate.

The buyer is Joe Kelly, a powerful politician by this time. He also has married into a chewing gum fortune. So it is Mrs. Kelly that you see next—a gay, greying lady of short skirts and long drinks. She has changed things around the house, and has cut down some of the tall trees to put in a swimming pool. Her son gets kicked out of Princeton, comes home, organizes an orchestra, and seems to be doing well enough.

But the Kellys lose their fortune in the crash, so in 1934 you find the wife of Tony, the bootlegger, bossing the transformation of the mansion into a roadhouse. Tony once was the Howland gardener. Now he and his wife tolerate the drink-cadging of the younger Howland son, penniless and aging. Sister Carrie has long since gone mad.

In the sixth scene a modern playgirl drops chips on a roulette table in Tony's night club. Chatting with unseen passersby, she narrates the end of the Hawland saga, and sees the last of the Howlands family die at a bar in his own ancestral hall.

It is a gripping story as Miss Skinner has written it, ad as Miss Skinner enacts it. For the imaginative playgoer she weaves a weird sort of magic. After a time one begins to see the imaginative characters to whom she speaks. Her stage is peopled with invisible realities. She herself can grow old or young, tall or short, gay or sombre in a minute's transformation. You can guess what any Broadway producer would give to sign her for an ordinary play.

Appointment of V. McN. Holfe as wiring inspector for the municipality was confirmed by the Esquimalt council yesterday evening.

SIMPLICITY ITSELF!

NOW is the time, madame, to fill a jam cupboard that will keep you supplied the whole year through. See for yourself how simple it is with Certo . . . how little time it takes with Certo's extremely short boil. Why, you can make up several batches in just no time at all, even from fruits you could never make "jell" before.

More Glasses, Too!

Notice, too, how many glasses you get—half again as much jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit—all because of Certo. With Certo you never boil jellies more than half a minute . . . jams only a little longer. What a lot of time and trouble you save!

And Far Finer Flavour

The juice has no chance to boil away. That's why you get much finer flavour . . . all the flavour of the fresh, ripe fruit, for Certo jells the juice that would have boiled away by the old (long-boil) method. Results are certain, if you follow carefully the recipes in the booklet (containing 75 recipes), under the label on every Certo bottle.

If you have jam or jelly-making problems write Consumer Service Department, General Foods, Limited, Cobourg, Ontario.

"You were pretty wonderful yourself," she admitted, "getting them up here twenty minutes ahead of time. In cases like theirs every minute counts, you know."

She called the hospital that night and was told that they were still very ill, but the next day the doctor telephoned that, thanks to her skillful treatment, they were going to recover.

The knowledge that together Barney and she had saved two lives made her strangely happy. Twice they had shared danger and responsibility and both times she had found him capable.

She knew by now that to be a good pilot a man must have integrity and steadfastness. He must be conservative but also able to meet an unexpected crisis. These qualities Barney had proved he possessed and she admired him for them, even though she had made up her mind to see as little of him as possible.

For a week this was not difficult to do as his headquarters were in Los Angeles and his days off were spent there. Also, she did not happen to be on his plane.

Meantime, she went out with Stephen and was compelled to hear about Bart, who had finished his interneship and had started work in Dr. Reagan's office.

"Father is so tired," Stephen said, "he's going to Alaska as soon as Peggy and Bartlett are married."

Bartlett was tired, too, and if he had married her they could have gone to Yosemite for the vacation he needed. But that would not happen now. Irene could forsee how his youth and vitality would constantly be sacrificed to save the failing strength of the older man.

Bart's future was cut out for him and it was his own choice. But it was a hard, relentless creed which forced a doctor to deny himself so many of the things other men took for granted.

She preferred aviation. Its danger and thrills. But she loved Bart. She told herself she must love him, although, when she closed her eyes at night, it was no longer his face she saw, but the gayly impudent, infinitely tender features of an Irish pilot.

CHAPTER XVII

Irene had heard of being in love with two people at the same time but she had never believed it was really possible. The feeling she had for the pilot was undoubtedly sheer physical attraction. He was so gay and devilish and young that he awakened these same attributes in her. He made her want to forget that she had ever been a nurse or had any responsibilities or troubles.

Life from Barney's point of view was just a happy song. "A short life but a merry one" was his motto and, as the days passed, it began to appeal more and more to Irene.

Why worry? Why be upset over anything, when within ten minutes you could be above the clouds, floating in an opalescent milk white sea?

The old care-ridden days and fatigue-burdened nights of her hospital life drifted further and further away. The past seemed definitely over The present, vivid, joyous hours spent in the air, was all that mattered.

Then, just as she had achieved this beatific state of mind, Bart entered her life again. It was on Saturday, just a week after he had finished his interneship, that he came to her apartment and insisted upon seeing her.

He had not telephoned and Irene, expecting to spend her afternoon shopping, was dressing to go downtown when the door bell rang. Throwing a bathrobe about her, she opened the door for him and when she saw who it was, color rushed like a tide into her face.

"Why, Bart!" she said.

"Are you angry with me for coming here, Irene?"

"Of course not, only why didn't you telephone me?"

"I was afraid you wouldn't see me. Have you forgotten that I did telephone you several weeks ago?"

"Peggy was here that afternoon." "She told me later she was, but I've seen you since then."

"At the Palace. I haven't forgotten."

"You wouldn't promise to see me then, either," he reminded her. "So I telephoned the airport to learn your address and here I am. Aren't you even going to ask me in?"

It upset her to see him again, but in spite of everything she had done she couldn't be unkind to him.

"I'm dressing, Bart. But if you'll wait, I'll be ready in just a minute."

Meekly for one usually so masterful, Bart came into the living-room.

"Nice little place you have here," he said, glancing around.

Something faintly condescending in his tone made her feel that he was comparing it with Peggy's luxurious home, but perhaps she was unduly sensitive.

"We like it," she said, offering cigarettes.

"We?"

"The two girls I'm living with," she explained, escaping into the bedroom.

Her eyes in the mirror looked excited. Was it her love or vanity which was thrilled over this visit, she wondered, discarding the bathrobe for a sport costume of pale green wool.

"Where is Peggy?" she asked as she returned to the living-room. "Why didn't you bring her along?"

"Why should I? She happens to be at the St. Francis for lunch."

"Alone?" Irene asked, remembering Peggy's flirtatious glances the day they had been there together.

Bart sighed.

His voice was so irritable that Irene was sorry for him.

"You're very tired, aren't you? You've had a strenuous time."

"I'm dead," he admitted. "You've no idea, or yes, perhaps your are the one person who can understand what I've been through. Peggy doesn't. She wants me to go out with her every night even when her father tells her I haven't time."

"Peggy is very young," Irene reminded him. "You can't expect a girl of her age to act otherwise."

"You'd think, when she's had a surgeon for a father, she'd have a little comprehension of the situation."

"I'll say she does," he groaned. "The worst of it she is never ready to go home. She doesn't consider it an evening if it ends before 4 o'clock. And I can't stand it."

"Please don't talk to me about it, Bart. I don't think it's fair."

"Fair?" he repeated cynically. "There's nothing fair about it, but what can I do?"

YOUNG LIBERALS JAR WASHINGTON

Two Youthful Members Jolt Congress Out of Coma; Win Leadership Laurels

Washington, Sept. 10.—The House of Representatives is a place—for all but a few—where obscure politicians go and lose their identities.

Those who stand out from the pack are almost invariably elderly getlemen who have time-served their way to the positions of power through the seniority system, which sometimes is called the senility system.

Yet to-day its most outstanding members—in point of independence, aggressiveness, ability, integrity, and future promise—seem to be a couple of fellows who have been there only eight months—Mr. Maury Maverick, thirty-eight, of Texas, and Mr. Vito Marcantonio, thirty-two, of New York.

A burly, bull-voiced son of the plains, whose ancestors were big shots in early Texas days and in colonial New England, and a swarthy, keen-eyed, vigorous little Italian-American from one of New York's toughest districts. You wouldn't think they'd have much in common.

But they share a passion for free speech, underdogs, social and economic justice, national peace and most of those other things that go to make a complete progressive.

With equal zest, they abhor bunk, bellicose and meddling admirals and generals, war, and selfish interests which exploit "the common people."

Eeach happens to be a smart politician with a sense of humor, which has enabled them to obtain a lot of co-operation—even from the old-line leaders—and to assume an unofficial leadership of the most effective liberal bloc the shackled House has seen in many years.

LIBERALS IN STRONG BLOC

The liberal House bloc includes Carl Moran of Maine and Otha Wearin of Iowa, with whom Maverick and Marcantonio co-operated in the brilliant fight those two made against the Bland-Copeland ship subsidy bill; Paul Kvale of Minnesota, Eicher of Iowa, Citron of Connecticut, Lister Hill of Alabama, and most of the Wisconsin and Washington delegations.

The first revolt Maury and Vito led was against the McSwain-Baruch war profits bill, which seemed to them to guarantee war profits and conscription. The House added an amendment conscripting war profits.

They were on the unofficial House board of strategy for the holding company bill. Like hawks, they watched and blocked the Tydings-MacCormick bill providing prison sentences for anyone who incited "disaffection" or "disobedience" in the armed services and the Kramer bill making it a felony to advocate "overthrow of the government by force and violence."

BATTLE FOR NEUTRALITY

The neutrality battle found them in the van of the effort to get an effective bill as against the administration's mild measure and next winter they'll be fighting for an even stronger one.

Maverick, badly wounded and decorated for gallantry in the war, has a neutrality bill—prepared with the aid of thirty professors and international lawyers—which would confine the army and navy defence of American territory; prohibit contracts to supply munitions or other things designated as contraband to warring nations, and ban such exports as well as loans and credits and casual passports to warring countries and war zones.

TVA IS HIS PET

It was the Texan who exposed the navy's official memorandum branding the Federal Council of Churches, National Council for Prevention of War, and Women's International League, Jane Addams, Clarence Darrow and Sherwood Eddy as "Communist-minded."

Maury would like to be the leading congressional expert on TVA, which he thinks is the best thing the administration has done. He organized the House against the hostile bill reported out by the Military Affairs Committee, of which he is a member. Because coal region congressmen opposed TVA, he went to Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania and said in effect, "No TVA bill, no Guffey coal bill." Guffey got busy and TVA triumphed. Later, with the aid of Maverick and his "mavericks," the Guffey bill won in the House by a narrow margin.

MARCANTONIO IS FIGHTER

Marcantonio was campaign manager of Fiorello LaGuardia when LaGuardia was beaten for re-election to Congress in 1932. Then LaGuardia ran for New York mayor and Vito ran for Fiorello's old House seat. Campaigning for each other, both won and Marcantonio is regarded as a worthy successor to LaGuardia, who became the most effective independent leader in the House.

A member of the Labor committee, Marcantonio is radical in his demands for labor. He led a brilliant but unsuccessful battle against compulsory military training in colleges and managed to block the Dicktein alien deportation bill. He led the unsuccessful revolt for a tax bill soaking all incomes above $5,000 and raising the administration ante on big inheritances, incomes and corporations.

Recently he walked out on the "third party" conference in Chicago, believing there were too many "crackpots" there.

If there's a future for radicalism, Marcantonio has a big future.

BRITISH-ISRAEL LEADER COMING

An outstanding visitor to Victoria this week is the Rev. E. J. Springett, Commissioner for Canada of the British Israel World Federation, who will address two meetings in the City Temple on Thursday and Friday evenings at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Springett comes here after superintending the annual Dominion convention of the federation in Winnipeg, and has also attended the provincial convention held this week in Vancouver.

Before leaving Toronto, the Dominion headquarters, for the West, Mr. Springett toured Quebec and the maritime provinces and reports a large increase of membership and well-attended meetings.

Formerly rector of St. Patrick's Church, Winnipeg, Mr. Springett was unanimously selected for the leadership of the British Israel movement in Canada which under his guidance has now established over a hundred local associations.

An attractive and forceful speaker, he filled the Massey Hall in Toronto at his monthly address last winter, and proportionately large audiences have attended his meetings in the West. His subjects here will include a forecast of the Canadian political situation and of international developments in the light of Scripture prophecy.

Late H. P. Long Unique Figure

The following sketch of the career of U.S. Senator Huey P. Long, who died of a bullet wound in Baton Rouge, La., this morning, is from the Associated Press.

Rising from cotton patch to national prominence as United States senator and dictatorial boss of Louisiana, Huey Pierce Long attained the highest degree of state control ever recorded under the democratic form of government in this country.

He was a psycological enigma to man and political phenomenon to virtually all experts. He conceived and did things which none but he thought possible and which none of the "old line" politicians ever tried.

An army of enemies, whom he repulsed again and again at the polls or in the courts dubbed him "demagogue," "madman," "destroyer of constitutional government" and worse terms running the gamut from "election thief" to "political racketeer."

He called himself "Kingfish." It was a term applied originally in sarcastic vein to an opponent. Long once assumed it jocularly for himself, found a ready publicity response and thereafter clung to it.

From the time he shook from his heels the dust of a Hillside cotton farm in Louisana's Winn parish as a tobacco-chewing youngster of sixteen to become a traveling salesman, until a subservient legislature in 1934 and 1935 passed laws which transferred control of the state's every activity to the political machine which he dominated, Long was a law unto himself.

In the national field he launched a campaign to restrict big incomes and "spread the wealth" by making every person in the United States free of debt and giving each individual $5,000. This followed Louisiana state enactment of a debt moratorium law.

Long was born August 30, 1893, on a 320-acre farm which became part of the town of Winnfield, La., when the coming of a railroad transformed the fields into city lots. He was the seventh child in a family of nine.

He attended the Shreveport high school but did not finish the course. His college work was confined to three months in the law department of the University of Oklahoma and about seven months of intensive cramming in the law school of Tulane University. Then he passed a special examination for admission to the bar and was admitted to practice in May, 1915.

When he was nineteen years old, he was arrested at Shreveport, accused of being involved in a shooting scrape. An alibi cleared him, Miss Rose McConnell testifying he had escorted her to a theatre that evening and producing the seat stubs as proof. The next year they were married. They became the parents of two sons and a daughter.

Long began his political career early. At twenty-five he was elected to the state board of railroad commissioners. He ran unsuccessfully for governor when he was thirty and attained that office four years later.

Defeating an attempt to impeach him, he consolidated his political power and won the 1930 federal senatorial primary and election from the veteran Joseph E. Ransdell. Finding his foes planned to acquire the governorship, he retained that office until January 25, 1932, when he took his seat in Washington. That same year he helped his close political ally, John Overton, win Louisiana's other senatorial post from Edwin S. Broussard.

Thereafter he shuttled between the national and state capitals, defending his state organization against attacks and reinforcing it until his personal power virtually was absolute, while in Washington he kept himself in the spotlight by bitter attacks on the national administration.

Although Long's opponents dubbed his pet measures "claptrap" or worse and sought to discredit him by pitiless exposure of personal scandal, he went blithely on his way. He had undisputed talents as a shrewd lawyer, always rewarded his adherents and waged incessant warfare against his foes, but chiefly he relied on a rare persuasiveness as a speaker. He knew just when to say "ain't," when to quote Scripture and when to speak logically and clearly.

The custom with United States senate that new members listen and learn meant nothing to the redhaired Huey. He declaimed his "share-the-wealth" project and denounced his party's leader, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, for "compromising" with the republicans. In one of his early speeches he became so personal in his comment on fellow senators that he was forced to stop.

On August 9, a month before the Baton Rouge shooting, Long took the Senate floor to read to that body what he said was a plot on his life. From a thick sheaf of typewritten pages he described what he termed the latest "plot" to assassinate him.

Clothing some of his remarks in half-jests behind which lurked an air of conviction, Long said two of his Louisiana supporters had listened in through a sound recording device to a conference of Louisiana political figures in a New Orleans hotel room.

At that conference, he said, open threats against his life were made, one unidentified "voice" saying he would be willing to draw lots to see who would kill him "right in the senate."

CHALLENGE TO ROOSEVELT

His open challenge to President Roosevelt on a "share-our-wealth" platform was considered by some as motivating Mr. Roosevelt's insistence on his wealth tax bill.

On August 15 in New York, Long announced he would be an independent candidate for President in 1936 "if the Republicans go Hoover, the Democrats go Roosevelt, and there is no other liberal candidate."

His aggressive tactics did not stop with the administration, but extended to the Senate. Three filibusters marked his participation in the 1935 session.

After adjournment, House leaders revealed plans for an investigation of the Long regime in Louisiana under a bill giving wide powers to a special committee.

Senator Long dared the investigators to "come on." In the face of the plan, he had the seventh special session in 1935 called for the Louisiana Legislature for another militant challenge to Washington. It was during this meeting at Baton Rouge, involving an attempt to cause the arrest of federal agents administering some New Deal laws in the state, the assassin fired his bullet.

Texas Now Wet By Local Option

Associated Press

Austin, Tex., Sept. 10.—Constitutional prohibition ended a sixteen-year tenure in Texas yesterday evening.

The ban against possession and sale of liquors went out of the fundamental law with issuance by Governor Allred of a proclamation declaring results of the August 24 election. The official canvass of the vote showed repeal carried 297,597 to 250,948.

Sale of intoxicants became legal immediately in twelve counties and in one or more subdivisions of fifty other counties under a ruling of Attorney-General William McCraw that sales may be made without restraint in political entities that were wet under local option prior to statewide prohibition.

Sandy Somerville Reaches Third Round In U.S. Golf

THE SPORTS MIRROR

THERE IS every reason to suspect that many major league managers has missed their calling. Judging from the successful gambles they have taken this season, they would be more at home, and probably fortunate enough to retire, seated in front of a spinning roulette wheel or bucking a faro bank at Monte Carlo. Baseball has been full of gambles this year.

* * *

Pie Traynor gambled on making a starting pitcher of Cy Blanton and the Pittsburgh Pirate rookie has proved to be one of the best pitchers in the majors. Casey Stengel, too, gambled on a rookie, and Jimmy Bucher has been one of the most valuable men on the squad, filling in nobly in infield and outfield, and pounding his way right up among the elite in the batting department.

* * *

Other managers have gambled with rookies—and won. Charlie Grimm put Phil Cavarretta on first in his place and retired to bench managing; Frankie Frisch banked on Terry Moore to come through in the outfield, and the youngster has kept Ernie Orsatti on the bench most of the year. Not all gambling has been done with rookies; considerable chance has been taken on veterans. Tom Yawkey gambled his investment of three million bucks in the comebacks of Lefty Grove and Wes Ferrell. The latter has returned with a bang, and Grove, if his luck were a little bit better, would make the Boston Red Sox a hard team to beat.

* * *

Yawkey, however, lost one of the best cards in his deck when General Manager Eddie Collins engineered the deal that sent Outfielder Julius Solters to the St. Louis Browns. Big Solters is slaying the horsehide for Rogers Hornsby. Bill Terry took a gamble on Mark Koenig this year, and the veteran was all that saved his infield during the early stages of the pennant race. Jimmy Dykes took a chance on Tony Piet coming through after being washed up in the National League, and Tony developed into one of the best second sackers in the American loop.

* * *

But as big as these gambles appear, those taken in the stretch stage of the pennant races are more hazardous and less likely to produce results. However, acting on the old adage that has it "Nothing ventured, nothing gained," three pilots have wagered a lot on rookies, made regulars in the last six weeks of the season, and have cashed in heavily. Frankie Frisch, St. Louis Card's pilot, and Mickey Cochrane, leader of the Detroit Tigers, have put a heaping pile of chips on the board on the performance of two rookie hurlers—Ed Heusser, St. Louis freshman, and Roxie Lawson, recently bought by Detroit from Toledo.

* * *

Heusser was batted from pillar to post in two early-season starts. In the recent series with the New York Giants, with both teams having won two games, Frisch, to the surprise of everyone, yanked Ed off the bench and put him on the mound in the deciding game. He came through with a 7 to 3 victory with a little aid from Dizzy Dean, followed with an impressive 8 to 1 decision over the Brooklyn Dodgers, then a 5 to 1 verdict over the Phillies.

* * *

Cochrane's gamble with Lawson has been every bit as fortunate as Frisch's. Lawson, former Cleveland Indian rookie, was bought from Toledo, where he was none too impressive last year. With hardly a warm-up, the right-hander went in against the Boston Red Sox and shut them out with five hits, winning 2 to 0. He came back four days later to blank the Philadelphia Athletics, 11 to 0, holding them to four hits. It would be a strange trick of fate if these two winning cards, drawn late in the game, should face each other in the world series.

* * *

The other pilot who has been gambling with high stakes this season is Steve O'Neill, who, since he took over the helm of the Cleveland Indians after Walter Johnson's resignation, has been drawing to two-card flushes and filling them. O'Neill's prize move was the transformation of Thornton (Lefty) Lee from a relief hurler into a starting pitcher. The result is that the Indians have uncovered one of the best pitching prospects in the league.

To-night at the Olympic alleys meetings of the senior and commercial tenpin bowling leagues will be held. The former will go into session at 8 o'clock and the latter an hour later. All bowlers, whether they are connected with the leagues or not, are invited to attend.

Canadian Shoots Sub-par Golf To Mark Up Easy Win

Defeats Buglas Hill, Cincinnati, 6 and 4; Three Under Par For Day

Cleveland, Sept. 10.—Ross "Sandy" Somerville, Canadian veteran and former holder of the United States amateur golf crown, featured the early advance into the third round of the tournament to-day by blasting Buglas Hill, Cincinnati, with a sub-par package of explosives.

Somerville's second-round victory by a 6 and 4 margin, found the Canadian ace three under par for fourteen holes. He was out in 34, two under, and ended the match with a birdie two.

The Canadian's out card showed three birdies.

With clear, cool weather conditions, the title seekers opened up the firing in earnest. Walter Emery, Oklahoma, city, former national intercollegiate champion, was one under par for fifteen holes in routing T. S. Jamieson Jr., Pittsburgh, 5 and 3.

Charles Wallace, Cleveland amateur, led the way into the third round, to be played to-morrow morning, by trouncing Earle Baruch, Philadelphia, 6 and 5.

NASH WINS

Upsetting a former champion, Jack Nash, London, Ont., won his match to-day. Nash defeated Max R. Marston, Philadelphia, champion in 1923, by a margin of 6 and 4.

Zeb Eaton, Oklahoma City, former western amateur champion, was victim of the day's first major upset when he lost out to Morton McCarthy, Norfolk, Va., Middle Atlantic amateur champion, 1 up, in a match decided on the 19th hole.

Eddie Hogan, Portland, Ore., took the scalp of Johnny Fischer, Cincinnati's hope and a former American Walker Cup star 2 and 1 after a hard-fought match.

Scotty Campbell, Seattle, former Canadian amateur champion, was even par for fourteen holes as he took Jack Finger, California, into camp to the tune of 5 and 4. The Seattle star meets Eddie Held in the third round to-morrow.

Charles Yates of Atlanta, Ga., the current western amateur title holder, put on a garrison finish for the second straight day to pull his match out of the fire. Three down at the turn and four down as he lost the tenth, the Georgian won seven successive holes to eliminate Michael Parco, Buffalo, N.Y., 3 and 1.

The Gasmen took a two-run lead in the first inning and another run crossed the plate for them in the fourth. They made it a 4 to 0 in the first half of the ninth but Athletics were saved from being blanked by their lone counter in the last half of the last session.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

Six hundred men, called the "Eucholimes," attached to the court of the Celtic king of the Sotians, formed one of the strangest bodies of men ever known in history. A royal company of kingly comrades, they chose to be the king's companions in life and in death.

Each of them was tended like a king. All of them lived with the king and ate with him. All wore kingly garments. But they had one gruesome duty to their king—when he died they died and accompanied him to the grave.

The strange will above was hastily drawn by Francisco Bosch shortly before he died in Los Angeles. By its terms he left $1,500 to a lifelong friend. Officials examined it with a microscope and admitted it to probate in court. The writing covered the bottom and ends of a match box.

Inmates of the Phoenix, Alabama, jail experience the strange status of living at home and being in jail at the same time. They sleep at home, have breakfast and dinner there, but come to jail in the daytime. If they want any lunch they have to bring it with them.

Peter of Blois, noted as an author and traveler, was a man of remarkable learning. He knew civil and canon law, something of medicine and was well acquainted with Latin classics. In dictation one secretary was not enough. He employed three, dictating different letters to each of them at the same time—and still had time to pen a fourth letter himself.

Orillia Called To Retain Boxla Title

Terriers, Victors Over New Westminster in Last Year's Canadian Final, Open Bid To-night For Ontario Crown; Several New Players on Team

Orillia, Ont., Sept. 10.—Orillia's dashing Terriers, who meet Burlington Beavers to-night in the first game of the Ontario Amateur Lacross Association finals, are called by many to retain their Dominion championship. But the team is not believed as strong as the well-balanced squad that captured the Mann Cup last year.

The 1935 Terriers, who so far have shaken off all opposition, have three obstacles to overcome before they can count on another trip west.

Should they win the present series, with the second game in Burlington to-morrow night, the Terriers will then face Cornwall Indians of the Ottawa district group for the right to meet the Quebec champions in the eastern finals. The eastern winners will play a sudden death game against the Manitoba champions in Winnipeg and then head for Vancouver and the Dominion finals.

NEW PLAYERS

Many new faces dot this year's lineup of the Terriers. The net-minding position is handled by two newcomers, Teddy Hall and Bruno Cavallo. Last year diminutive Pete Anthony starred in the nets, aided by the veteran Ambrose Hihds, who died during the winter. Anthony this season cast his lot with Hamilton Tigers, and Hall stepped into the nets, with Cavallo understudying. Hall is only nineteen years old and still eligible for junior lacrosse.

Cavallo, twenty-two years old, came to Orillia from Bradford. He is known for his peculiar method of carrying the ball from the goalmouth up the field when his team is in difficulties.

Four defencemen are carried by the Terriers. Fred Hatton and Hank Munro play the positions occupied last year by Stan Partridge and Andy Tudhope. Hatton is twenty-two years old and weighs 180 pounds. He is one of the sturdiest checkes in the O.A.L.A. Munro holds the distinction of being the tallest player in Ontario lacrosse. He stands six feet, four inches, and is twenty-two years old. He played last winter with Hornell Beavers, New York State champions.

Hugh Kelly, Allan McLean, Len Wilkes and Douglas Runions, are new additions to the wing line. Kelly, known as "shipwreck," is only nineteen years old, but played with the Hamilton Dominion champions in 1933 and with the same team in 1934.

Wilkes has played three seasons in senior lacrosse.

SEVERAL VETERANS

Well-known veterans from the backbone of the Orillia team, Tom Scott, captain, this year won the Jimmy Murphy Trophy, awarded annually by the O.A.L.A. for clean and effective playing. He was a member of the 1931 Mimico team that won the Mann Cup.

Bill Wilkes, Len's brother, ranks among the best lacrosse players in the Dominion, and other topnotch veterans include the Curran brothers, Ernie and Bill, Ed Downey, Gordon Boettger and Bill Wilson.

WINS CHESS TITLE

Montreal, Sept. 10. — Morris Fox, Montreal, yesterday evening won the Canadian chess championship, succeeding J. H. Belson, Toronto, as cup holder. B. E. Gales, Toronto, placed second as the seventeen rounds of the tournament were completed.

D.F.A. SHOWS GOOD PROFIT

Canadian Soccer Body Has $3,156 on Hand According to Annual Report

Winnipeg, Sept. 10.—Chiefly the result of the success of last summer's Canadian tour of Scottish footballers, the Dominion Football Association to-day is more prosperous than at this time last year.

The association's annual report, issued by Secretary Sam Davidson yesterday, showed the D.F.A. has cash in hand totaling $3,156. Last year, the cash account was $1,800 less than outstanding accounts.

The Dominion championship soccer playdowns again showed a net deficit, the report showed. The paid attendance for all games was 59,416, and the total receipts $16,746.

Among suggested amendments to the association's constitution to be discussed at the forthcoming annual meeting is one from the British Columbia Football Association which, if carried, will forbid any club carrying more than twenty registered players

Max Baer Still Has Supporters

Former Heavyweight Champion Will Have Plenty of Backing When He Battles Joe Louis on Sept. 24; Maxie Confident He Will Break Negro's Defence

New York, Sept. 10.—Despite the cadaverous figure Max Baer cut the night ringworm Jimmy Braddock nudged him off the heavyweight boxing throne, an amazingly large number of people are calling him to whip Joe Louis September 24.

In the press and on the streets you find the hypothetical question posed: "What will the negro's reaction be when Baer tags him with his Sunday punch?"

The theory behind that one is that the black boy has a white liver— that he can't take it. Also, it is assumed Baer's right hand still totes dynamite, and if it does, the former champion will be able to get through the Louis defence to explode it.

In 1933, when the Baer right hand landed on Max Schmeling's chin to turn the Teuton's knees to rubber, there was no doubting the potency of the weapon. But that same hand landed on Braddock's lower jaw a number of times last June and didn't so much as rumple father Jimmy's hair-part.

HAS SETTLED DOWN

Large quantities of ink are being used in telling the fans Maxie has put his hi-di-ho habits behind him. "Dancing dames and drink no longer interest Baer," ran one such blurb. They say he will come up to the Louis engagement in the best condition of his capering career.

Against the uncertainties of Baer, there is the dead certainty Louis fights all the time, and he really can fight. He is a crafty boxer in addition to being one of the hardest hitters of the present-day ring.

Speculator, N.Y., Sept. 10.—Max Baer says Joe Louis is going to have to take it on the night of September 24 if he wants to stay more than a couple of rounds.

Baer studied motion pictures of the Louis-Carnera fight yesterday and later said: "Louis simply doesn't know what it is to be hurt.

He'll be hurt plenty on the night of the twenty-fourth, and then we'll see what happens. I think I'll make good my boast to chase him out of the ring before two rounds have elapsed."

Baer labored at road work and wood chopping yesterday and planned to put on a public glove exhibition to-day. He has boxed sixty-six rounds since coming here.

MISS WETHERED PLAYS AT BANFF

British Golf Star Shoots an 81 Over Stiff Course at Holiday Resort

Banff, Sept. 10. — Joyce Wethered, most famous of women golfers, took a holiday to-day from her golfing tour of this continent which has called for about fifty exhibition matches since the end of April, her holiday being to play a friendly, casual eighteen holes over the Banff Springs Hotel course.

Although this brilliant player ran into bad luck at the first of the tricky Prince of Wales course, she completed the eighteen holes in 81, being one hole up over Casper McCulloch, course superintendent, but one stroke down. Together they broke even against Col. Phil Moore, Banff, playing the course with bows and arrows. Hilliard Lyle, assistant manager at the Banff Spring Hotel, completed the foursome.

Miss Wethered's driving was a joy to the large gallery. Frequently she attained close to 250 yards. While she went into many bunkers due to her strangeness to the course, her recoveries in every instance were perfect. The fast greens gave her trouble with putting at first but she soon overcame that. Going out she had a 44, eight over men's par, but coming home she begin to get the feel of the course and carded a 37, two over men's par.

The third annual women's bowling tournament was held recently on the Burnside greens. The winners were: First, Mrs. McKenzie, Mrs. Eastham, Mrs. Shearing, skip; second, Mrs. B. Peden, Mrs. Gwilt, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Holmes, skip; third, Mrs. Barrie, Mrs. Little, Mrs. Mercer, Mrs. McKeachie, skip.

C.N.R. Officer Revolver Champ

London, Eng., Sept. 10 (Special Cable.)—Captain R. C. Pickrell, of the Canadian National Railways police, Winnipeg, won the British open revolver championship at Birmingham, setting a new high record score of 152, 152, 154 out of a possible 160 points in the first, second and final stages. This was twenty-three points above the nearest competitor and Pickrell also set new record scores for all stages in this important competition.

MILLER WINS BY DECISION

Pittsburgh, Sept. 10.—Little Freddie Miller, the National Boxing Association's featherweight titleholder, punished Eddie Zivic for ten snappy rounds at the Duquesne Garden yesterday evening and was awarded a unanimous decision over his heavier opponent. It was a non-title battle.

Zivic, a Pittsburgher, had the advantage in weight, reach and height, scaling 132, but Miller, a Cincinnati product, weighing 127¾, was in command all the way.

Miller, a master infighter, thumped Zivic's body thorougout the tenth and final round. The Pittsburgh boy's right eye was partially closed as the gong sounded. He was a weary, beaten fighter, but the fans cheered because "he sure could take it."

FORM DAY AT WILLOWS OVAL

First and Second Choices Rule at Second Day of Local Meet

Form followers at the Willows race track had their day yesterday when first and second choices won every race, with the exception of one. Prices were generally low and only on few occasions did the returns break into double figures.

The largest price of the day was returned by Viola K in the first heat over the five and a half furlong route, who gave the punters $51.10 for a place ducat when she ran second to the public choice, Gebo.

The only upset win of the day was registered by Jockey Young, piloting Dunrode in the fourth race. The win ticket paid $14.25. Young was set down for three days by the judges in this race, for riding his mount across the track, contrary to racing rules. This action did not interfere with any of the other entries, however, and the victory stood. Busy Seth paid $19.35 to show in this event.

The one-two event in the fifth race, Adam Somers and Fracchina returned only $6.30, while Flying Atom and Umpire combined to return $7.50 for the one-two in the last race.

Jockey Emil Sporri had a gala day in the saddle, only being unplaced in one race. He rode two consecutive winners, in the first two races, took three seconds in the third, fifth, and sixth heats, and brought his mount in for show money in the last.

Strawberry Vale Captures Trophy

A smooth-working Strawberry Vale softball nine came through to capture the Reeve Crouch Cup, emblematic of the Saanich Softball League championship, when they defeated the Burnside Maple Leafs in both matches of a double-header staged on Sunday at Hampton Road in the final games of the play-off series.

In the first game staged in the morning Strawberry Vale chalked up a 15 to 9 win. The afternoon game resulted in a wide-margin win for the Vale nine who snowed under the Maple Leafs, 28 to 4. The first match of the play-offs which was to have been played the Sunday before was won by the Maple Leafs by default, owing to the Vale nine not showing up.

Chicago Cubs Making Bold Bid For National League Title

Double Win Puts Club Within Game Of Leading Cards

Turn Back Boston 5 to 1 and 2 to 1 as St. Louis Beaten By Phillies

DETROIT-YANKS BOTH VICTORS

Most of the baseball seers who forgot Charley Grimm and his boys in their early season calculations, are making ready to take to the storm cellars. In fourth place, nine games behind the New York Giants, on July 6, the Cubs find themselves to-day two games ahead of the balloon that busted and only one game behind the leading St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cubs ran their current winning streak up to six straight games yesterday, defeated Boston Braves 5 to 1 and 2 to 1 as the Cards were dropping one to the Phillies.

Tex Carlton was stingy to the extent of allowing but four hits in the first game and Larry French came back to take a decision from Fred Frankhouse in a mound duel in the nightcap. The double dose ran the Braves losing streak to nine straight.

Manager Frankie Frisch had a hitless birthday and he probably would have swamped all the candles on his cake for a reversal of that 4 to 3 defeat the Phillies hung on his team. Philadelphia hopped on Phil Collins for three runs in the fifth inning and scored the deciding tally off Ed. Heuser in the eighth when Chiozza singled, Watkins sacrificed and Allen singled.

Before the game the gas house gang went a little sissy; presenting Frisch with a bouquet of flowers and then singing a birthday song as Dizzy Dean tossed aside the bat for the baton.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Detroit Tigers retained the eight and a half game lead in the American League, coming from behind to down Washington Senators, 5 to 4. The game was limited to seven innings by rain and darkness.

The New York Yankees defeated Cleveland 5 to 3 for their third straight victory over that team. Jack Saltzgaver connected with four hits for a perfect day at bat and drove in three runs, one with a double and two with a homer. Selkirk sent home the other two, one with a circuit drive.

St. Louis Browns, fresh from the the cellar themselves, had no compassion for the team that replaced them there. The Philadelphia Athletics went down 5 to 1 before the pitching of Earl Caldwell, right-hander from San Antonio in the Texas League, who held them to seven safe blows.

COAST LEAGUE

Lefty O'Doul and his San Francisco Seals looked over the Coast League situation to-day and found it to their liking.

A two-game margin, looming large in the tight second-half season race, stretched between them and the second-place Portland Beavers. Behind them was a highly successful series with Hollywood, in which they took the measure of the Stars, six games to two.

Only two more weeks remain before the league winds up its business for 1935. This week the Seals meet the sixth-place Oakland Oaks, with a good prospect of fattening their average. They close on their home field against Seattle.

The Seals ended the Hollywood series yesterday with a 3 to 2 victory in the first game of a scheduled double-header. The second contest was called in the fifth on a time-limit agreement, with the score knotted, 1 to 1.

The San Francisco Missions and the Los Angeles Angels split their double bill, the Angels taking the first and the Missions the second, both by 6 to 5 scores. A wild throw by Catcher Mike Frankovich, letting in two Angel runs, lost the first game for the Missions.

Oakland bowled over the Sacramento Senators twice in another Admission Day doubleheader, 7 to 3 and 2 to 1.

McLARNIN MAY FIGHT YAROSZ

Vancouver, Sept. 10.—Jimmy McLarnin, the Vancouver Celt, who twice held the world's welterweight championship and twice lost it to Barney Ross, stated yesterday he is considering a $25,000 offer to meet Teddy Yarosz in Boston for the latter's middleweight crown.

Jimmy said the Boston Garden has been dickering for the scrap for some time and he intimated only a fourth battle with Ross in Chicago was likely to upset it.

McLarnin has just returned from Honolulu, where he spent his honeymoon with his bride of July, the former Lillian Cupit of Vancouver. He has been keeping in shape with daily rounds of golf.

Aga Khan's Thoroughbred Captures Champagne Stakes at Doncaster

Doncaster, England, Sept. 10.—The Aga Khan's Mahmoud to-day won the Champagne Stakes, one of the season's greatest races for the two-year-olds.

The betting was 13 to 8 against the winner, 9 to 1 against Abjer and 15 to 8 against Bossover. The winner is by Blenheim former Derby winner, out of Mah Mahal.

Campbell Says Car Not Sold

But Famous Racer's Bluebird May Return to U.S.

Chicago, Sept 10.—Sir Malcolm Campbell declared yesterday he had not sold the racer Bluebird, in which last week he set a world automobile speed mark of 301 miles an hour, but a member of his party intimated the way was not closed for the famous car to come back to America.

Sir Malcolm admitted he had received an offer for the Bluebird from Curtis Sanford, wealthy Tyler, Tex., sportsman. Dispatches from Tyler quoted Sanford as saying he had acquired the famous car for $100,000, and would start it on a tour of the United States within two weeks.

William F. Sturm, Campbell's United States representative, indicated the Texan's offer might receive further consideration despite the fact the Bluebird was going across the Atlantic.

Jack Doyle Gets Suspended Again

Trenton, N.J., Sept. 10.—Irish Jack Doyle, heavyweight, who was recently defeated by Buddy Baer, was suspended thirty more days yesterday by state boxing commissioner George E. Keenen. The suspension will be automatically lifted next month.

Doyle was given a thirty-day suspension last month when he failed to appear for a fight with Leo "One Punch" Williams in west New York. Doyle said he had injured his arm, but failed to appear for examination by New Jersey doctors, as directed by the boxing commissioner.

Ada MacKenzie Is Tourney Medalist

Toronto Star Leads Strong Field in Canadian Women's Open Golf Championship at Vancouver, With 81; Invading Players Make Fine Showing

Vancouver, Sept. 10.—Smooth stroking Ada MacKenzie, Toronto, teed off to-day on the second lap of her trek towards the 1935 Canadian women's open golf crown. Medalist in yesterday's eighteen-hole qualifying round when she carded a smart 81 over the women's par 77 course, the Toronto ace opened match play to-day with Dorothy Schwengers of Vancouver, as her opponent in the first round.

A high wind that whipped her tee shot into a trap and lifted it out of bounds on her attempted recovery robbed the veteran star of a 79 on her initial round yesterday.

OTHER SCORES

Close behind the Toronto star came another shotmaker from the eastern metropolis, Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen, who added a 40 to her first nine of 43 for a fine 83.

Two more easterners followed to give eastern Canadian aces a stranglehold on the top places of the draw. Mrs. Leo Dolan, Ottawa, and Mrs. E. H. Gooderham, Toronto, put together cards of 40-45 for 85's.

Mrs. S. C. Sweeney, Vancouver, first British Columbian to qualify, carded an 86, going four over par on her first nine and slipping to five over the second half of her round.

Next to Miss Mackenzie, Mrs. Gooderham showed the best form of the opening round, and but for a bad second nine, when she found the high wind too much of a handicap and carded a 45, would have tied her fellow-townswoman for medal honors, she went out in 40 and chalked up three birdies for the eighteen holes. She missed at least three others by inches when her putts rimmed the cup, after staging beautiful recoveries on the second nine when her towering second shots were carried into the rough or traps by the wind.

Miss Dorothy Schwengers and Mrs. G. Irvine, both of Vancouver, gained the championship flight in the play-off with four others who returned cards of 95 in the qualifying round. They eliminated Mrs. T. Melton, Mrs. R. Clement and Mrs. J. J. Mason, all of Vancouver, and Mrs. J. Train-Gray, of Calgary.

Miss K. Duff Stuart, Vancouver, 49-51—100.

Miss Elizabeth Finn, Seattle, 49-42—91.

Mother-daughter Seek Golf Crown

Vancouver, Sept. 10.—First mother and daughter entry in a championship golf event over a British Columbia course, Mrs. R. S. Leachman and her teen-aged daughter Marian, from Berkeley, Calif., are still in the title hunt for the Canadian women's open golf crown.

Mrs. Leachman paired with Mrs. Leo Dolan, Ottawa, in yesterday's eighteen-hole medal round to card a 92, while her daughter went around the tricky Jericho layout in a stroke less.

Miss R. Gelletley, Vancouver, 47-54—101.

Barbara Northwood, Winnipeg, 50-42—92.

Gentlemen:
Back in 1911 we first determined that some of our valuable animals were being attacked and poisoned from within by various types of intestinal parasites. Very little relief was obtained until we administered our first lot of fifty Vermicide Capsules. That trial order of fifty Capsules prepared the ground for the foundation upon which to-day rests our confidence 100 per cent in the employment annually of over 50,000 of the Capsules in our ranches of over 12,000 breeders. No other remedy has as yet equaled it in point of dependability and safety.
We feel grateful for the benefit derived from your Vermicide Capsules and cannot praise them enough. They have always stood the test and they stand supreme over all makes of worm remedies.
Sincerely yours, FROMM BROS., Inc., by Edward Fromm, Pres.

He was appointed in place of Reeve Alex Lockley, who was unable to attend. The sum of $65 was voted for expenses.

A small roof blaze which broke out on one of the outside stalls at the Willows exhibition grounds was quickly brought under control by attending firemen yesterday evening. A two-by-four near the chimney took fire from a spark and started to blaze merrily until it was doused. The incident occurred about 9 o'clock.

On Tuesday, September 17, in the Foresters' Hall at 8 p.m., S. E. Bell Irving of Vancouver will address the regular meeting of the Victoria and District British-Israel Association on the subject, "Socialism and Democracy." Mr. Bell Irving is a well-known Vancouver business man and has made an extensive study of present world conditions.

The Ministerial Association met on Monday in the Y.W.C.A., Rev. D. A. S. Imrie, vice-president, presiding. After routine business, Rev. G. G. This building was at one-time owned by the late Hon. John S. Helmcken, and subsequently by the late Dr. J. D. Helmcken, who had his offices there for twenty-five years. Latterly it had been the home of L. D. Chetham, former C.P.R. district passenger agent, who retired this year.

SHELTER IS IN NEED OF FUNDS

The need for funds to keep open the Citizen's Recreation Rooms on Fort Street throughout the winter was stressed at a meeting last night.

H. H. Smith presided and R. F. Taylor in presenting his financial statement showed expenditure during August as $180.00 with income for the same period $33.01. Mr. Taylor stated funds now on hand were below the $100 and would not meet the present month's expenses.

The finance committee had in previous years appealed to the public about this time for funds to assure continuance of the institution through the winter. $1200.00 will be needed to assure operation until next spring.

The directors after considering the amount of men making use of the rooms, and the good work done, and the still pressing need among unemployed and semi-employed men, instructed the finance committee to prepare an immediate appeal for funds.

A. H. Hundleby secretary reported over two hundred men daily made use of the rooms and frequently expressed appreciation for the privileges. A large number of men who were not on relief but made a living by odd jobs, made use of the office for contact and daily he received calls for some of them. Most of these men could not afford a telephone, and frequently could not get the contact except through the office, which was becoming a clearing house for them.

The chairman remarked that when the public realized the value the rooms were to so many men, a generous response would meet the appeal for funds to keep the rooms open.

Mrs. Widdicombe was seventy-five years of age and had been a resident of Victoria for twenty-four years, her late residence being 502 Dallas Road. She is survived by relatives in England.

COURT RULING IS SUSPENDED

Lawyers Need Not Submit Factums This Fall, Attorney-General Announces

Attorney-General Sloan announced this morning that the Court of Appeal rule requiring the submission of factums, that is, written arguments, two days before hearing of a case has been suspended until the January sittings of the courts.

Mr. Sloan said he wished this drawn to the attention of the profession so that lawyers now working on their factums could dispense with the unnecessary labor.

He explained that the rule had been abrogated because it was not working out satisfactorily. The court regulations call for appeal books to be filed two days before hearing and this creates a hiatus unfair to respondents.

The department will work out a solution to the difficulty before January.

CITY CASES PROGRESSING

Satisfactory progress was being made by Victoria's three smallpox cases, Dr. Richard Felton, city medical health officer, reported to-day.

Any citizens wishing to be vaccinated will be treated at any time in the city health office, Dr. Felton stated to-day. Vaccination is available there at all times free of charge.

The five new directors elected were W. W. McGregor, L. F. Osborne, A. E. Osborough, H. E. Savage and Everett Taylor. The officers had been elected by acclamation. They were Waldo Skillings Jr., president; Angus McIntyre, vice-president, and Harold Butteris, secretary-treasurer.

The president and secretary read reports covering the year's activities. They showed an increase of four members during the last twelve months. Reports were also read from the international organization showing an approximate 10 per cent increase in general membership and the formation of several new clubs during the year 1934-35. These reports stated prospects for the coming year were good and that further increase in membership was expected.

It was announced at the meeting that Joslyn Waterman of Seattle, district governor of Gyro, would come to Victoria for the local club's installation ceremonies at the Empress Hotel on September 18. William C. Hudson of Victoria, deputy governor, will assist Mr. Waterman. It was reported a representative contingent from the Nanaimo Club would also attend.

Newton F. Pullen, a charter member of the Victoria Club, and now connected with the B.C. Telephone Company in Vancouver, attended yesterday's meeting and spoke briefly to the members.

Fifteen-minute poultry talks will be given on the north side of the Poultry Building at the Victoria Exhibition, beginning at 3 o'clock, on Wednesday afternoon. W. Hagger, Dominion Egg Inspector, will speak on eggs, and J. R. Terry, poultry commissioner for B.C., will give a short demonstration and talk on backyard poultry keeping.

Local Display Judged Winner

The local exhibit was awarded 1,735¾ points against Langley's 1,707½. Burnaby was third with 1,659 and Coquitlam fourth with 1,608¼. It was Mr. Naysmith's second straight win in British Columbia this year. He won first prize with the local exhibit at the Vancouver exhibition. The Victoria display also won both prizes last year.

Bennett Forced Into Debt Plan

Obvious For Long Time That Lower Interest Needed, Says Pattullo

"It has been obvious for a long time that something like this must be done. That is why we have been advocating it consistently," declared Premier Pattullo this morning in a brief comment upon the election proposal of Premier Bennett for refunding of Dominion, provincial and municipal debts at lower interest rates.

The Premier did not enlarge upon this comment, but it was recalled that one of the first steps taken by the present provincial government when it assumed office was to pass legislation for a general refunding of the British Columbia debt and has also assisted several municipalities to reduce their interest charges. At Ottawa, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, persistently asked for Dominion co-operation in carrying out an interest cutting plan by conversions which would not involve repudiation.

In other government circles, the Bennett plan to retire everyone at sixty years of age created considerable discussion.

H. E. DOUGLAS NEW MEMBER

Harry Edgar Douglas, local agent of the Great Northern Railway, was formally introduced into the Kiwanis Club at its luncheon held this afternoon in the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Douglas has served with the Great Northern for thirty-six years, and was recently transferred to Victoria from Vernon. He expressed appreciation at being admitted to the club, and is pleased to live in such a beautiful city as Victoria.

Rev. E. F. Church made the introduction with a few well-chosen words.

Percy George spoke briefly to the members on the "New Deal" programme for the island, urging the club to give its whole-hearted support. A petition of the "New Deal" was handed to the members, who were asked to sign it in order to show that they were in favor of the plan.

Rowan MacKenzie, president of the club, was in the chair and toward the close of the luncheon gave a brief description of the Kiwanis District Convention programme held recently in Vancouver. He commended the Vancouver body for the courtesy extended during their visit.

S. J. D. Clack and Harold Diggon also spoke shortly.

DR. J. A. NEFF DIED TO-DAY

Retired Medical Man Succumbs; Formerly Practiced in Edmonton

At any early hour this morning at the family residence, 1426 Brooke Street, there passed away Dr. John Alexander Neff, aged seventy-six years.

Born in Ontario the late Dr. Neff practiced medicine in Ingersoll, Ont., for fifteen years, then moved his practice to Edmonton, Alta., where he resided until his retirement five years ago when he came to Victoria. The deceased was a pastmaster in the King Hiram Lodge No. 37 A.F. and A.M., in Ingersoll, Ont.

Besides his wife he is survived by one son, Dr. Aubsey Neff, chief medical officer of Cyprus, Mediterranean, and two daughters, Mrs. H. H. Depew and Mrs. A. Hill, both of Victoria. The remains are resting at the Sands Mortuary Limited and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

DIES IN SPOKANE

Word was received in Victoria yesterday of the death in Spokane of Mrs. Isabella Tate, formerly of 418 Beach Drive, Victoria, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. S. Hoyt, Spokane, on September 7. She was the mother of the late D'Arcy Tait, K.C.

CHILD'S DEATH WAS ACCIDENT

Details of How Four-year-old Jackie Allen Met Death Told at Inquest

Details of the accident in which four-year-old John (Jackie) Vance Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Allen, 930 Fairfield Road, sustained painful injuries which caused his death, were told at the inquest in Hayward's B.C. Funeral Home this morning.

Three eye-witnesses, Mrs. Dorothy Watson, Reginald Cooper and John Connell, told how the lad, accompanied by his seven-year-old brother and another companion had started across Fort Street from the south curb, at Quadra Street. The elder lad and the third boy got across first and as Jackie ran from in front of a parked car he was struck by the bumper of a car driven east on Fort Street by Mrs. H. A. Maclean, 1020 Moss Street, and run over by front and rear wheels.

Mrs. Maclean stated she was driving at a moderate speed when approaching the intersection. She swung the car slightly to avoid the first two boys and as she did so she did not see Jackie until he came from in front of the parked machine.

Dr. A. C. Sinclair testified he attended the boy at St. Joseph's Hospital about noon on Saturday, shortly after the accident. He died after suffering a collapse about 6 o'clock. The doctor stated he was extensively bruised about the legs and lower portion of the body and suffered from severe shock.

P. J. Sinnott appeared for Mr. Allen. Members of the jury were: W. Norman Grice, foreman; Bernard Duncan, Henry Burdon, Albert Martin, Charles Lewis and James Todd.

Truck Overturns On the Malahat

Mrs. Julia Butts, Beattie Street, Esquimalt, is in St. Joseph's Hospital, and four other persons suffered minor injuries as the result of an accident yesterday evening on The Malahat, near the Scenic Lookout.

The other injured persons are Lieut. W. H. Smith of the city fire department, his wife, daughter and grandson.

To provincial constables P. H. Brown and Gerald Davis, who attended the accident, Lieut. Smith reported the truck had been side-swiped by another machine which had failed to stop. The truck rolled over twice after the impact, he said.

The injured persons were brought to the city by passing motorists. Dr. George Hall attended Mrs. Butts at the hospital where her condition was reported fairly good to-day. She is suffering from a broken hand and severe injury to her knee.

Here to Place Boy in School

J. Basevi, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Art Staff, Visiting on Island

To place their son, David, in the Shawnigan Lake School for Boys, Mr. and Mrs. J. Basevi of Beverly Hills, Calif., are in Victoria to-day.

Mr. Basevi is with the art department of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer at Hollywood. The M.-G.-M., he says, has been very busy on production work for the last four months, and he is taking a brief holiday on Vancouver Island, which he knows well. Just before Mr. Basevi left Hollywood, M-G-M finished the much-heralded picture, "Mutiny on the Bounty," starring Charles Laughton. The picture will shortly be released here.

Mr. Basevi is a close friend of Sidney d'Esterre, owner of the Elk Hotel, who visits the Basevi's at Beverly when he is making his trips to the West Indies.

As his services are required on a new production, Mr. Basevi is returning to Hollywood immediately, but Mrs. Basevi will remain here some time to be near her son.

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL

Rev. James Hyde conducted the funeral service for Mrs. Isabelle F. Butler yesterday afternoon in the presence of a large gathering of sorrowing friends, during which two hymns were sung, "Abide With Me," and "Lead, Kindly Light." Mrs. Beasley sang as a solo, "He Wipes the Tear From Every Eye." The casket and hearse were banked with beautiful floral offerings.

Colfax Rebekah Lodge, No. 1, attended in a body, with the following officers: Mrs. M. E. Sommerville, acting noble grand; Mrs. M. Dinsmore, vice-grand, and Mrs. F. Bullen, chaplain.

LABOR LEADER'S POSITION DEBATED

Canadian Press

London, Sept. 10.—Rt. Hon. George Lansbury, leader of the Labor opposition in parliament, shortly will discuss his position with fellow leaders of the party.

The overwhelming vote given by the Trades Union Congress to a resolution demanding full support of the League of Nations in the Italo-Ethiopian crisis, even to the extent of imposing sanctions against Italy, has raised the question of Mr. Lansbury's continued leadership inasmuch as he is opposed to the imposition of sanctions should the crisis reach that drastic stage.

But although his future is uncertain, it is expected at present he will be asked to continue in leadership of the party.

MUNRO WINS DRAFT CLASS

Carstairs, Alberta, Animals First in Heavy Horse Class Feature To-day

J. W. Munro, Carstairs, Alberta, took major honors in the most closely contested class of the heavy horses judged at the Victoria Fair this morning, while Crystal Dairy, Vancouver, finished second and third.

The section was the heavy draft class in which Oak Bay's prize team of black and grey geldings had been favored.

The three first horses were Clydesdales.

Canadian Pacific Railway farm, of Alberta., made a clean sweep of the Percherons in which they were unopposed.

N. S. Smith was first in the agricultural section.

Horsemen and teamsters gathered in the ring as the heavy drafts were led in and put through their paces. Between occasional streams of tobacco juice, they picked their winners, several favoring the Oak Bay entries. But when the judge had selected his three, the latter were not in the money.

CATTLE ADJUDGED

Goat fanciers to-day had expert opinions passed on their favored animals as adjudicators named prize animals. Breeds in which there was considerable competition included Nubians, Toggenburgs and Saanens.

Prizewinners in the attractive art department were listed to-day as judges completed their survey of the displays. Oils, water colors, commercial work, drawings, modelling, designs and many other features were included in the classes judged.

NEWEST FILM RECRUIT HAS TRIED EVERYTHING

The Times Staff Correspondent

George Houston, thirty-five-year-old opera and stage star, has been all of them. Now, in just another adventure, Houston is making his debut in motion pictures.

"Discovered" in New York, he has been cast opposite Josephine Hutchinson in "The Melody Lingers On," for United Artists.

Whether he will win film fame remains to be seen. But there is no getting away from the fact that he is an outstanding personality with good looks and marvelous singing voice.

Screen success, if it comes, will add another dramatic chapter to a life story that rivals fiction.

STORY RIVALS FICTION

CRAMMED with honors and excitement, Houston's life has been as colorful as a grand opera plot.

"Sometimes I've wondered and worried about my diffused existence," he says. "But things happened so fast that there was no stopping. Perhaps the screen will give me a more normal future."

Houston was born in Hampton, N.J., and inherited a fine singing voice from his father, the Rev. Thomas Houston, a blind evangelist, with whom George toured America and the British Isles for four years.

At the age of thirteen he distinguished himself in athletics, startling the prep school world by running the one hundred yards dash in ten seconds.

Later he studied at the Institute of Musical Art in New York. Then the war came and he spent two years driving an ambulance in France and was honored with the Croix de Guerre.

"Back to the soil" became his credo after the war and he studied agriculture at Rutgers College for a year—and then he gave it up.

SAILOR ON TRAMP SHIP

RESTLESS, Houston became a sailor on a tramp steamer. "Shore fever" hit him at a West Indies port and he remained behind to become a stevedore.

Returning to New York, he became a bank runner at fifteen dollars a week and sang in a church choir on Sundays. Then he returned to the Institute of Musical Art, was graduated, and supervised music in Bernards Township, N.J.

Tired of teaching, he returned to New York and did concert work. Then he became associated with the late George Eastman, the "kodak king," in his American Opera Company work and for six years served both as an executive and an artist.

Houston is six feet two inches tall, weighs 190 pounds and has brown eyes and black hair. Professionally, his voice is known as a dramatic baritone.

He is married to Leone Sousa, former Ziegfeld Follies beauty. He pilots his own airplane and is a pianist and violinist when the occasion demands.

MAKE YOU WHAT YOU ARE NOT

MAKING screen folk seem "like what they ain't" is big business in Hollywood. Hundreds of persons are employed in the makeup departments of film studios. "Aging" is one of the greatest arts of these experts.

Here's the way it is done. The first place attacked is the neck. Shadows are painted in and cords intensified. Lines are placed at the eyes and mouth. Shadows are built under the eye, usually by a bluish pigment. Then, fat or lack of fat, is indicated by the clever use of red.

WATCHING THE TUMMY

WHENEVER Adolphe Menjou and Verree Teasdale go into a restaurant these days, Verree does the ordering. Adolphe was getting too heavy, so she put him on a diet.

A life crowded with thrills and now he is trying the movies as a climax! George Houston, above, stage and opera star, has run the gamut of occupations in his thirty-five years, ranging from stevedore to symphony conductor, and is heralded as a bright prospect for screen success. He has been cast opposite Josephine Hutchinson in "The Melody Lingers On."

STARS IN NEW PICTURE AT DOMINION

"MURDER MAN" AT DOMINION

Spencer Tracy and Virginia Bruce Have Leading Roles in Smart New Picture

An interesting new team of stars makes its bow to the public on the screen of the Dominion Theatre today where "The Murder Man" is the feature attraction.

Spencer Tracy and Virginia Bruce are the co-stars—he as a hard-bitten, cynical New York newspaperman, and she as the paper's gullible "sob-sister" who can dish out advice to the lovelorn through her columns, but can't control her own heart.

Speed, suspense and mystery of the story only serve to heighten the romance between these two. They vie for acting honors in this stirring Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

"The Murder Man" is powerful entertainment. It deals with the exploits of a star reporter, a crime expert who assists the police in solving a sensational murder mystery—with disastrous results to himself.

Lionel Atwill as a police captain, Harvey Stephens as the suspected murderer and Robert Barrat as the newspaper's managing editor contribute outstanding performances, as do James Stewart, William Collier, Sr., Louise Henry, Fuzzy Knight and others of the capable cast.

"The Murder Man" is a new Harry Rapf production for M-G-M, directed by Tim Whelan from a story by Whelan and Guy Bolton. It is recommended without reservation.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Richard Barthelmess, the star of "Four Hours to Kill!" showing at the Playhouse Theatre, portrays the part of an escaped murderer being sent to the gallows. As a part of the plot he is supposed to hand a roll of bills to his captor as a goodwill gesture.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Paul Kelly and Neil Hamilton battle for the favors of the lovely Ann Sothern. The direction is by Roy William Neill and in the cast are Mickey Rooney, Spencer Charters, Jane Darwell, Joan Gale, Geneva Mitchell, Theodore Newton and Tyler Brooke.

ERROR IN DOUBLING SLAM

Challenge of Opponent Permits Declarer to Make Seven Contract by Fine Vienna Coup

By WM. E. McKENNEY

Here is a nice Vienna coup hand played at the recent Canadian-American Tournament by Henry Jager of Cleveland, O., past president of the American Bridge League.

As I have often stated, there is a definite rule for doubling slam contracts. Before doubling you must say to yourself, "Have I two possible ways to defeat this contract, and do I place these two possible ways in danger by giving the declarer the information that I hold certain probable tricks?"

In tournament competition good players seldom double a seven contract, figuring that if they defeat the contract they are bound to get a good score because the opponents will be minus on a hand that could probably have made a small slam and certainly game.

THE PLAY

The opening lead of the nine of clubs was won in dummy with the king. The ace of hearts was cashed, followed by the queen of diamonds. Declarer entered his hand with the ace of spades and picked up the outstanding trumps.

After cashing the ace of clubs, he played out all of his remaining trump and on the last diamond lead East was squeezed. East had only three cards left, the king of hearts and the queen-ten of spades. The discard of the heart would set up declarer's queen, while the spade discard would allow the remaining tricks to be won in dummy.

Other South players attempted to make this hand by establishing the spades, but this effort failed, for South had to ruff twice with high trumps and then lost a trump trick to West.

You will notice that it was necessary to cash the ace of hearts early in the hand, thereby setting up East's king. The play is termed a Vienna coup.

Motors Buck Profit-Taking to Reach New Highs On Wall Street

Canadian Press

New York, Sept. 10.—The strength of motors and specialties kept the stock market on its feet to-day despite profit-taking in many of the recent leaders.

A number of issues pushed up to new highs for the year or longer. The utilities and rails were quiet. The closing tone was firm. Transfers approximated 2,000,000 shares.

Prices backed and filled during the greater part of the session, but the list gave ground grudgingly on the realizing flurries and the volume dwindled. The last-hour upturn was the best of the day. Buying in the automotive group and favored industrials were generally linked with rosy earnings prospects.

New dividend declarations attracted attention in the afternoon. American rolling mill voted a 30-cent payment, the first since January, 1931, when 50 cents was paid. Houdaille-Hershey declared a 25-cent disbursement on the class "B" stock. The last previous payment was 30 cents a share in July, 1930.

Owens-Illinois glass shares recovered more than 3 points of their yesterday's decline and Eastman Kodak was up around 4. Chrysler, General Motors, Hudson Motors, Briggs Manufacturing, Westinghouse, Case and Johns-Manville recorded new 1935 tops with advances of fractions to 2 points.

(By H. A. Humber Ltd.)

Futures Strong On Winnipeg List With Fractional Gains

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Sept. 10.—Reluctance of western Canadian farmers to sell their wheat did much to hoist the price of futures on the Winnipeg grain exchange to-day. Values closed ½ to ⅞ cent higher, both October and December at 88¾ and May at 90⅞ to 91 cents.

Though deliveries to country elevators approximated 3,000,000 bushels, little wheat actually passed from the farmer's possession and resulted in comparatively light hedging in pressure in the trading pit on the local market.

Liverpool closed ⅝d lower to ⅛d higher. Buenos Aires also was unchanged to ⅛ up at noon, while Chicago held about unchanged. Foreign sales of Canadian wheat to-day were insignificant.

Cash grains spreads were about unchanged. Coarse grains were firm.

Chicago, Sept. 10. — Higher wheat futures prices here to-day accompanied strengthening of the world's statistical position. Expectations that French wheat exports will cease, orderly marketing of Russia's new crop and small remaining supplies in the southern hemisphere with unsatisfactory Argentine prospects, were cited as bullish international trade factors. Profit taking and hedging held Chicago wheat in check early but offerings lightened later.

Wheat closed ⅛ off to ⅝ higher compared with the previous finish, December 93½-⅝, and corn was ¼-⅛ up, December 56⅞-57. Oats gained ⅛-⅜, rye ¾-⅜, and barley was unchanged to ½ lower. Provisions were higher.

Wheat Test Shows Protein Content

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Sept. 10.—First tests of the 1935 wheat-crop made by the grain research laboratory of the Board of Grain Commissioners to-day disclosed a protein content about equal to that shown in tests of the 1934 crop at the same period.

The average of tests from 27 points in Alberta last year showed a protein content of 14.5 per cent and for this year the content from the same areas was 14.4 per cent. For the 176 points in Saskatchewan which showed a protein content last year of 15 per cent, the figure for the tests this year was 14.2 per cent. The Manitoba tests for 25 points was 12.8 per cent compared with 13.6 per cent last year.

So far 407 samples of the 1935 crop have been analyzed, comprising forty-eight samples from Alberta, 313 from Saskatchewan and forty-six from Manitoba. Further tests will be made as the harvesting of the crop continues.

Wayside Active On Vancouver Market To Gain Two Cents

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept. 10.—First advance in days appeared in wayside in the morning session of the Vancouver stock exchange to-day, the stock turning active to advance two cents at 18.

Wayside brought the best trading of the list, turning over 11,000 shares. Volume for the session was better, sales getting up to more than 64,000 shares.

Calls For Road Improvement

Public Works Minister Says B.C. Problem Now Highways Already Built

Canadian Press

Harrison Hot Springs, B.C., Sept.10.—With the statement 290 miles of hard surfaced roads will be completed in B.C. by the end of this year, Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, told delegates to the Good Roads League of British Columbia that "our need now is not for construction but for improvement of existing highways."

"The time has come when our main trunk highways will have to receive consideration in some form of surfacing treatment," he said, adding that 30 per cent of trans-provincial road is now hard surfaced.

The minister, who spoke this afternoon, warned his audience that continuance of the programme would depend on money voted by the Legislature and said he could not guarantee additional progress.

Answering criticisms from some quarters that the seven-cent gasoline tax had not been applied to highway building, Mr. MacPherson said the total revenue received by the government from licenses, registration fees and gasoline tax had a deficit of $500,000 a year after payment of municipal grants, maintenance and interest charges. Money for highway costruction, he said, had to come from other sources.

WOMAN HAS PAINFUL TRIP

Mrs. P. A. Curtis, New York, Loses Eye While Hunting in Rockies

Canadian Press

Jasper, Alta., Sept. 10.—A hazardous trip over mountain trail by saddle and pack horse from the isolated headwaters of Colonel Creek ended here when Mrs. P. A. Curtis, wife of Captain Curtis, a New York publisher, reached the Jasper Hospital.

Victim of a big game hunting accident, Mrs. Curtis was struck in the eye by the sight on her gun from the recoil as her foot slipped when she fired at a mountain goat high up a rocky ledge. Doctors found it necessary to remove the badly lacerated eye.

As they were unable to take the trail at night, camp was made and at dawn the journey out was started. Capt. Curtis and the guide were forced to chop their way for nearly five miles to a trail. Mrs. Curtis traveled thirty-five miles of mountain trail on horseback with her husband supporting her in the saddle.

At Yellowhead, B.C., an express fruit train was flagged, and Mrs. Curtis reached the hospital here thirty-six hours after the accident.

Tarzan The Untamed

Ahmed, son of the maharajah, was perplexed. Roger Cecil had sent word he was arriving to-morrow. Also (the thing that caused Ahmed to raise his eyebrows), he was bringing with him an English girl, hoping she, too, would be welcome.

This prince of India, cultured and western-civilized by English schooling, was far removed from his ancestors, whose rites included "Suttecism," or the burying of widows with their deceased husbands, as well as the practice . . .

. . . of throwing infants into the sacred river Ganges. Still there was his fanatic father to be considered. He knew how his highness hated the conquering British and detested the presence of English women in his palace.

Another thing caused Ahmed uneasiness, for this native state was secretly conspiring to throw off the British yoke. But he much desired to honor his friend, Cecil, who had once so bravely come to his rescue, and so he decided to accept the circumstances.

The Gumps

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I am rearing a family of four girls whose ages run from eight to eighteen, and I often wonder if I am not neglecting some important part of their training. Would you mind telling me what you think parents of growing daughters should teach them? HELEN B.

Answer: I think it is more important now than it ever has been before that mothers should ground their daughters in the principles of right living, because the modern mother cannot protect and look after her daughter as the old-fashioned mother used to do. Mother cannot follow her daughter into the business office in which she works and stand between her and the lecherous men that prey on such as she. Mother cannot go with daughter to parties or to night clubs or on long rides in the night.

By the time a girl is eighteen she is virtually on her own nowadays, and whether she stands or falls, whether she wrecks her life or saves it, depends upon the principles that her mother has bred into her. All of the chaperoning that a mother can do has to be done while her little daughter is in the cradle. All of the protection a mother can give her daughter is to teach her how to protect herself.

So I think that the most important thing that a mother can do is to teach her daughter self-respect. Teach her to keep clean, physically and spiritually, and to value her body so highly that she will not suffer it to be mauled by every little pimply-faced petter who dates her, nor to sell it for champagne suppers and diamond bracelets. The girl whose mother has taught her to value her honor never stumbles and falls. She walks safe among the perils of modern life.

Every mother should teach her daughter as soon as she is able to understand anything at all to know herself and to guard against her own weaknesses. She should teach her especially to guard herself against her own passions. All temptation comes from within. No girl ever listens to the voice of the charmer until she longs to hear it. No girl strays from the straight and narrow road until her feet ache for the downward path. Teach a girl to guard herself against herself and you have done all that can be done to protect her.

Teach a girl the dangers that she is bound to encounter in life. The world is full of pitfalls for a pretty girl. Erect a red lantern before each of them. Make her read the papers and see what happens to the wild women. Murder, suicide, disgrace, death. The gay life won't seem so alluring if it is shown ending in the morgue or the potters' field.

In trying to protect your daughter, don't overdo it. A too-strict home is worse than a home that has no restrictions at all. Youth is going to have its pleasures. It prefers to take them decently at home, but if that is forbidden it will find them abroad. You can make boys welcome and see that they have a good time at your house and so know what sort of lads your daughters are associating with and what they are doing. Or you can shut your door against them and have your girls lie to you about where they are going and pick up boys on the streets and make blind dates.

Give your daughters as good an education as they will take, but see to it that they are taught some way to support themselves. Perhaps they will marry. Perhaps they will not marry. Perhaps they will have to earn their own living. Perhaps they must stand between a sick husband and children and starvation. Whatever fate befalls them it will always give them poise and dignity and be a comfort to them to know that they can stand on their own feet and be independent.

Teach them how to sew and how to cook. Especially how to cook. Whatever else a woman needs to know in life she always needs to know these two things. For on them depends not only her own convenience but the well-being on her family.

And teach your girls good manners and the amenities of life. They are a woman's passport to every grade of society. All doors open to her before their magic. If you will teach your daughter these things, the remainder will take care of itself. DOROTHY DIX.

* * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been married six years. My husband and I love each other very dearly and the only drawback to my happiness is that I long for a child and he is not willing that we should have one. He likes to be petted and made much of and fussed over like a baby, and he says that if we had a child we would not love each other any more—that a child would part us. Do you think this is true? MRS. A. M. C.

Answer: Very often this does happen, so your husband's apprehensions are not without foundation. There are millions of women who apparently lose all interest in their husbands as soon as the first child is born and thereafter regard their husbands not as men, but simply in the light of slaves to support them and their offspring.

Before baby came, the wife devoted herself to her husband. She considered his pleasure in everything. She dressed up to please his eyes. She cooked good dinners for him. She spent her evenings entertaining him. But after baby arrived she had no thought for any one else. Baby was first and husband ran a bad second. She quit fixing herself up and went sloppy because baby pulled at her chiffon and laces. She couldn't go out with husband because she was afraid to leave the baby. She didn't have time to talk to him because she had to watch baby sleep. She didn't have anything interesting to say because she didn't think of anything but baby. I have even been in homes where there wasn't anything fit for a sophisticated adult to eat because the food had been reduced to a spinach and carrots and cereal dietary suitable for the infantile stomach.

Uncle Wiggily's Lesson

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily's bunny rabbit children had come back to their Hollow Stump Bungalow home, from Green Lake, on Monday. And on Tuesday morning, all of a sudden, they heard a bell loudly ringing.

"What's that?" asked Baby Sunty.

"It's the school bell," answered Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy. "The Lady Mouse Teacher in the Hollow Tree School is waiting for you. Off you go!" So away hopped the bunny children while the bell rang: "Ding dong and dong ding."

"This is like old times," said Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose as he saw his children start for school. "Now I'll hop away and have an adventure. But I think, first of all, I'll stop at the school and see the Lady Mouse Teacher. She may have some new pupils and perhaps I can help with the lessons. Yes, I'll do that."

So Uncle Wiggily hopped to school though he was long past the age when he had to worry about his home work. But Uncle Wiggily wasn't the only elderly animal gentleman who thought of going to school that morning. Though perhaps I shouldn't call the other three "gentlemen," for they were far from being that.

Truth to tell, the other three elderly animals who, like Uncle Wiggily had the idea of going to school, were the Fox, the Wolf and the Bob Cat. It was the Bob Cat's idea, sly creature that he was.

SHOULD GO TO SCHOOL

"Fellows," said the Bob Cat to the Fox and Wolf that morning, "we should go to school."

"What's the idea?" snarled the Fox. "I quit school long ago. I went through the first grade. That was enough for me."

"I went through the first grade, too," said the Wolf. "I never did like study, so I quit."

"Well, I didn't leave school until I was half way through the second grade," said the Bob Cat proudly, though he wasn't at all proud of his silly little tail. He sat on it as often as he could so none of the other animals would see it and make fun of it. "So I know more than you two chaps do," went on the Bob Cat.

"Do you want us to go to school again so we'll learn as much as you, Bobbie?" asked the Fox.

"No," mewed the Bob Cat. "But if we go to school now, this first day of the fall term, we can easily catch something to eat. There is always a lot of confusion and mixup the first day of school. There will be a lot of new, strange pupils, Miss Mouse will be all excited and we can easily catch a rabbit or two."

"But won't the teacher know we are Bad Chaps?" asked the Fox.

DRESS DIFFERENT

"We'll dress up different and pretend to be big new boy animals like Neddie Stubtail, the bear," said the Bob Cat.

So the three Bad Chaps, making themselves look like new, big, strange boy pupils, went to the school. In the confusion they sat in the back of the room and no one seemed to notice them. They were surprised when Uncle Wiggily came to school and hungrily they watched him.

"As an honor to Uncle Wiggily," said Miss Mouse, "he shall give the first lesson. What is it to be, Mr. Longears?"

"I'll give a spelling lesson," said the rabbit gentleman. "I see three, new big boys here," he went on, looking at the Fox, the Wolf and the Bob Cat, though then he didn't know them. "I will ask one of them to spell me the very easy word of SCHOOL. Come on now, one of you spell SCHOOL!"

The Fox looked at the Bob Cat. The Bob Cat looked at the Wolf. The Wolf looked at Uncle Wiggily. But not one of the Bad Chaps could spell SCHOOL because they hadn't gone as far as the second grade.

"Oh, ho!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "These aren't new pupils! They are the Bad Chaps, trying to fool us! Telephone for the Police Dog, Miss Mouse!" But the Bad Chaps didn't wait for that. Away they ran as fast as they could go. And if the clothes basket will let the elephant borrow a bed sheet for a handkerchief, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's tomato vines.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1935

Adverse planetary aspects rule strongly to-day. Labor troubles may interfere with big plans. It is a day for wise waiting rather than any kind of activity.

Farmers may be dissatisfied and discontented. Nature may be unfriendly for strange freaks of weather may cause losses. Drought after many floods is forecast for certain places.

Women may find this a confusing period and it is wise for them to be exceedingly cautious in making any business connection. The stars indicate that beauty will be more highly valued than brains.

Accidents are presaged under this planetary government, for it inclines to destructive rather than constructive conditions. It is an unfavorable day for physical exertion.

In the later hours of this day the mind may be active and the judgment clear. The trend will be toward facing facts courageously.

Evening editions of newspapers will contain important information. Wise men and women will conserve their money and their energies for future exigencies.

Industry is to come under a direction of the stars that inspires drastic policies and stubborn resistance to change. Problems affecting relations between employers and employes may be extremely serious.

Next month will bring to the world new puzzles in which human life will depend upon international diplomatic manoeuvres. Mars will be powerful.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of hazard which may be turned into profit. It is well to keep one's own counsel.

Children born on this day probably will be intellectual and unusually conscientious. Subjects of this sign of Virgo have a keen realization of personal responsibility.

Those who have celebrated it as a birthday include John Ireland, Roman Catholic prelate, 1838, and Felix Grundy, jurist and statesman, 1777.

NEW WARSHIPS TO BE BUILT

One Destroyer Will Be Constructed at Puget Sound Navy Yard, Bremerton

Washington, Sept. 10.—While speeding its treaty strength shipbuilding programme with a new authorization for twenty-three new vessels, the Navy disclosed today that construction of faster and more deadly naval aircraft was moving forward in pace with increased marine power.

Of the new warships, an aircraft carrier, eight destroyers and three submarines will be built by contract in private yards and one light cruiser, seven destroyers and three submarines will be constructed in government yards.

Ship contracts awarded yesterday totaled $59,226,500 but the estimates of cost for vessels to be built in navy yards—expected to aggregate less than the contract sum—were not made public.

Believing that planes and ships must be "inseparably tied up together" if Uncle Sam's sea strength is to equal that of other great powers, one high official said to-day that "we have got to have" an adequate air force to "balance" an supplement warships.

In the five to seven-year building plan, a total of 1,190 planes is contemplated. These will be combat, bombing, observation and patrol types.

Seattle, Sept. 10.—Construction of one 1,500-ton destroyer in the Puget Sound Navy Yard at Bremerton was anounced yesterday when the Navy Department at Washington revealed award of bids on twenty-three new warships.

The only other vessel to be built on the Pacific Coast will be one submarine at the Mare Island yard in California. All others will be constructed on the east coast.

The twenty-four ships represent the 1935-36 phase of the navy building programme designed to give the United States a full treaty strength navy by 1942.

New Danish Liner Welcomed To Port

Ms. Canada at Ogden Point To-day; Her Appointments and Accommodation Cause Favorable Comment

Another new liner which will link the Pacific Coast with Europe was welcomed to Victoria yesterday evening when the Ms. Canada, of the Danish East Asiatic Line tied up at the Ogden Point piers. She was in port all day, and was posted to sail for Seattle, starting her return voyage to Europe, at 6 o'clock this afternoon.

The Canada is undoubtedly one of the finest liners on this run. With the Europa and the Amerika she will give a monthly service between the Northwest and Europe. Officials of the line hope enough business will be forthcoming from Vancouver Island to send a ship to Victoria each month.

MANY COMFORTS

There is accommodation on the new ship for fifty-five passengers. The cabins are large and bright and each has twin beds, while many of them have private showers. The de luxe rooms have private bathrooms, each with two basins. There were no berths on the ship. Each cabin has lots of cupboard room, and many accessories for the comfort and convenience of the passengers.

The dining room, which is situated forward on the main deck, is large enough to seat all the passengers and the officers at one sitting. The tables were gay this morning with the flags of all nations, in preparation for the informal reception which is being held aboard this afternoon.

A special feature of the Canada is the cocktail bar, done in light woods and green leather stools and chairs. It is an extremely smart room and adjoins the lounge-smoking room, which is comfortable with big easy chairs and chesterfields. Off this apartment is the ladies' drawing room. The miniature ballroom, with a great skylight is nearby. This room is done in modernistic style and is equipped with piano and radio.

DECK FEATURES

The Canada has almost as much deck space as a big Pacific or Atlantic liner. There is room to promenade on the main deck, while above is a wide deck for sun bathing and deck chairs. Between the funnels is the sports deck, with several tennis courts. An outdoor built-in swimming pool is another feature which will be largely used when the liner is in the tropics.

The public rooms of the Canada are done in the simple, modern style, but on the walls are a number of very fine paintings. Those in the smoking room-lounge show picturesque scenes in Denmark and are done by the well-known artist Riberhold. They are of "Nakkehoved," "Moens Klint" and "Ebeltoft." In the dining saloon is a painting of Fredensborg Castle by Axel Johansen.

SETH PARKER GIVEN HELP

Honolulu, Sept. 10.—The coast guard patrol boat Tiger reported by wireless to her base here yesterday she had reached the disabled schooner Seth Parker, once the round-the-world craft of Phillips Lord, radio entertainer. The fifteen-man crew was reported safe. Although when the schooner asked for help last Friday it was said the food supply was exhausted.

The Tiger was standing by the Seth Parker, 600 miles south of Honolulu, waiting for daylight to transfer supplies to the schooner. The coast guard boat was then expected to tow the disabled craft here.

The Tiger reported the Seth Parker was traveling with shortened sail. Previous messages from the Parker's captain, had told of nursing along damaged pumps in an attempt to keep down the water in the hold after the craft sprung a leak en route to Honolulu from Pago Pago, Samoa. One mast had been carried away during a storm.

After a series of misfortunes on his world cruise, Lord sold the Seth Parker to a Hawaiian fishing company for use as a bait carrier, disbanded his crew in Samoa, and came to Honolulu aboard a passenger ship.

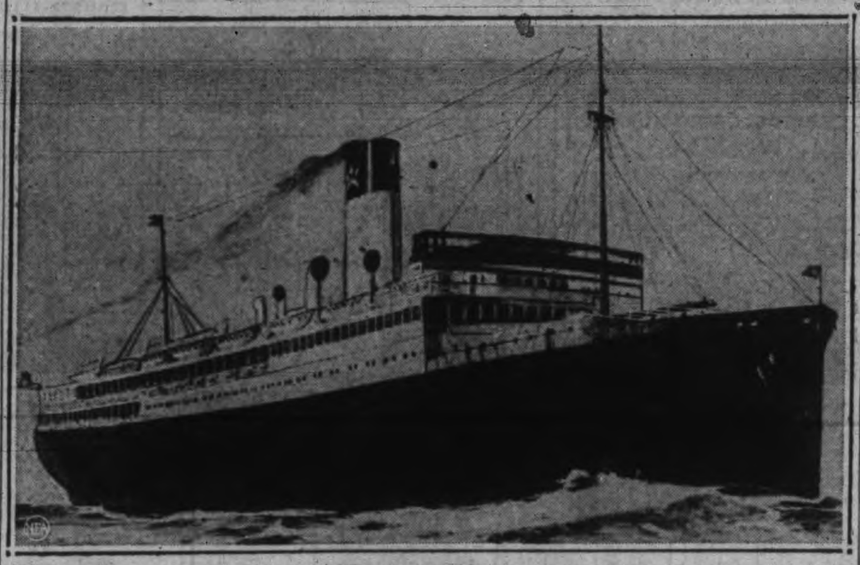
FINE SHIP POUNDING TO PIECES OFF FLORIDA



The once fine passenger liner Dixie, shown above, is now ending her days on Cary's Fort Reef, forty miles south of Miami, where she grounded during a storm last week. Her passengers and members of the crew were saved after remaining aboard the badly-listing ship for two days. The vessel was bound from New Orleans to New York when overtaken by the tropical hurricane.

RECTOR OF OLD CHURCH

Rev. Arthur West of St. Dunstan's Arrives By Ms. Canada on First Visit

"The British Columbia coast is beautiful and I am sure our boys and girls will be very happy here," stated Rev. Arthur G. B. West, rector of the ancient City of London church, St. Dunstan-in-the-East and a member of the council of the Fairbridge Farm School which is bringing out fifty boys and girls for settlement at Pemberlea Farm, near Cowichan Station.

Mr. West came ashore in Victoria this morning from the new Danish motorliner Canada. He was a passenger from Southampton on the liner's maiden voyage. It is in connection with the arrival of the first boys and girls that he took the trip. When he left the liner he went to the Empress Hotel where he will remain a few days before going to Pemberlea Farm.

The first party of boys and girls is leaving England this week and will arrive about September 25, Mr. West said. When they are settled in their new surroundings he will return to London. He intends to cross Canada and sail from Montreal for home. It is his first visit to this Dominion and he said this morning he was much impressed with what he has seen of the British Columbia coast. He spent the week-end in Vancouver aboard the Canada.

Mr. West holds the title of "Master Parson" and as far as is known he is the only one in existence. The title dates back to the time of Henry VII, when Cardinal Morton, in charge of seven or eight priests, each with their own chapel in St. Dunstan's, was styled "Master Parson," to keep them in order. The title was forgotten for about 200 years.

St. Dunstan-in-the-East is located in the City of London, between the Tower and the Monument and dates back to about 1,000 A.D. Mr. West has been rector since 1908 and is an authority on the history of his church, having written an interesting book dealing with it down the ages. One of the many causes supported by the parish is the Fairbridge Farm School scheme, which was originally established in Australia and which has been functioning there successfully for many years.

SHIP'S BOILER IS FISHED UP

Vessel's Mast Also Recovered By Seiner Off Pender Island

While fishing for salmon off the south side of Otter Bay, Pender Island, last week, one of Shannon Brothers' seiners caught a heavy object in a net and on dragging it to the saltery found it to be a rusty boiler, presumably from some boat which had foundered in the vicinity years ago.

A ship's mast was also hauled up some distance away by another seiner.

YACHTS RACE AT WEEK-END

By J. B. ACLAND

In the lightest of southeast airs that dropped to almost a calm at times, the veteran sailors set out Saturday for their annual race in the small craft, most of which are owned and sailed by the junior members of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club. Two drew star-boats, while the rest took the helms of the fourteen-foot international class dinghies. There being only two stars in their class, the race between them sailed by Arthur Crease and W. H. Langley became a match race; and, although they were included in the dinghy race, Tern, sailed by the Commodore, and Bandicoot sailed by F. M. Ohrt, also decided to make it a two-boat affair.

Unfortunately, the breeze was too light for a real test of anything but a guessing contest and the results cannot be considered to be an indication of the merits of the skippers concerned. One or two old "salts" who had elected to do their racing for the day on the judges' stand, lent the right atmosphere to the occasion by carrying on a running comment on the evolutions of the sailboats, generously interspersed with anecdotes of days gone by.

The race between the stars Mintaka and Aquila was a close one for the first round of the one and a half mile course, there never being more than twenty-five seconds between them at any of the marks; but on the second round Aquila picked up a better slant of wind and worked out a lead of some two minutes which she held for the completion of the race, the elapsed times being:

The dinghies—Kismet, G. A. Heal; Onoway, W. T. Barrett; Bandicoot, F. M. Ohrt; Pancho, H. T. Barnes; Falcon, H. Gahan; Melita, F. Jeune; Tern, T. Mercer (commodore), got away in that order, and in spite of varying winds heading them all over the bay, hardly changed their relative positions to each other. Pancho and Bandicoot changed places a couple of times, and the Tern came up strongly right at the end of the race to make fourth place, beating both Pancho and Falcon to do it. Kismet and Onaway worked out a six-minute lead over the next boat, Bandicoot, who was in turn sixteen minutes ahead of the rest of the fleet, the order of finish and elapsed time for the three miles being: Kitmet, 1.29.28; Onaway, 1.30.40; Bandicoot, 1.36.06; Tern, 1.52.08; Falcon, 1.52.30; Pancho, 1.54.33; Melita, 1.56.08.

FOR VERTUE CUP

In a light southeast breeze blowing into the bay, two stars Ripples (T. Halkett) and Aquila (Alec. Packford) and six dinghies Tern (G. Campbell), Kismet (H. Gann), Onaway (P. Hincks), Bandicoot (G. A. Heal), Pancho (H. Barnes Jr.), Falcon (P. Horsfield), took part in the last of the Vertue Cup series races Sunday. Ripples jumped into the lead from the very beginning and held it right through, finishing about six minutes ahead of Aquila, in a race which was a nice outing but uninteresting sailing.

The dinghies, on the other hand, put up some quite spirited racing. Kismet, which had held the lead through most of the race, lost the position half way round the second time to Tern, and Pancho which, also had been in the lead at one time, fell away to fifth place. In fact, up to the time that the boats rounded the Flower Island mark, for the run home, it might have been any boat's race; but once it developed into a "stern chase," the issue was pretty well settled, and the resulting times just about show the picture.

Ripples, 1.44.58; Aquila, 1.55.13; Tern, 1.50.00; Kismet, 1.54.45; Onoway, 1.57.13; Bandicoot, 1.57.42; Pancho, 1.58.36; Falcon, 2.00.37.

Runaway Airship Is Recaptured

Russian Captain Pulls Himself Up Rope and Crew Brings Craft Down

Associated Press

Staliho, Ukraine, Sept. 10.—A runaway airship, boarded in mid-air by its captain, was brought safely back to port yesterday after a six-hour struggle against the elements.

Thirteen persons were aboard in the ship, the semi-rigid U.S.S.R.-2, when it broke loose from its moorings here Saturday night during a storm. Among them was the twenty-year-old helmswoman, Vera Achenvald, who stuck to her post throughout the storm, steering the bucking craft to safety under the direction of the skipper.

Two members of the ground crew were injured seriously when the ship broke loose. With Captain Ivan Gudaventzeff, they clung to ropes as the craft rose suddenly into the air.

After a stern battle against the storm, he succeeded in manoeuvring the ship to a landing at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Rockets sent up from the field aided in guiding the craft back to port.

Insurance on the municipal hall was cut by $2,500 by the Esquimalt council yesterday evening. The policies were reduced from $11,500 to $9,000 to allow for depreciation of the building. The three $3,000 policies were renewed.
